HEAVY FIGHTING RAGES ALONG COAST

Russ Tighten Sevastopol Trap

Sea-Borne Army Lands On Crimea

By The Canadian Press

Sea-borne Russian troops, striking back into the Crimea at many points, were reported tightening a trap around Hitler's siege armies at Sevastopol today, while on the central front retreating Nazi forces were said to have left 10,000 dead on the battlefield and yielded 572 towns in five days.

At the same time the Germans acknowledged a heavy Soviet push in the Donets river valley of the Ukraine against the industrial city of Kharkov.

A bulletin from Hitler's field headquarters claimed that Russian troops who landed from barges at Yevpatoriya, on the west Crimean coast 40 miles north of Sevastopol, had been wiped out "in brisk house-to-house fighting."

SET UP BEACHHEAD

Countering the German version a BBC broadcast reported that the Russians had established a beachhead, that "heavy fighting is going on along the shore" at Yevpatoriya, and that German forces were moving

Dutch Indies Seen As Next Goal Of Japs

By The Canadian Press

Japan's next goal is the Netherlands East Indies. This appeared evident today from a U.S. war department communique reporting that the Mikado's sea-borne invasion armies in the Philippines have massed a powerful striking force at Davao Bay, 600 miles from Borneo and 400 miles from Celebes.

A Rome radio report heard in London indicated the thrust may already have started, declaring strong forces of Japanese parachute troops have landed on the east coast of Netherlands Borneo.

PLANES BOMB ISLAND

East Indies headquarters at Batavia reported a formation of eight Japanese flying boats attacked military objectives during the night on the island of Ambon (Amboina), site of a major Netherlands naval base, 800 miles south of Davao.

MEETS REQUEST MADE BY LORD BEAVERBROOK

Canada Greatly Expanding Arms Production

By C. R. BLACKBURN

OTTAWA, Jan. 7.—(CP)—Canada's wartime production will be expanded in a similar manner to that of the United States as outlined yesterday by President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Munitions Minister Howe told a press conference today.

This, he said, is in accordance with the mission to North America of Lord Beaverbrook, British minister of supply who has been in Washington conferring with American authorities and who received Canadian supply officials there for talks.

Mr. Howe said Lord Beaverbrook's mission was "to raise our sights on what we can produce."

USED ON ALL FRONTS

The munitions minister added that Canadian war equipment now was being used on every battlefield of the war—the Philippines, Singapore, China and in the Middle East.

Of Canada's war production efforts, he said:

"We are expanding as rapidly now as at any time during the war."

Since July, 1939, total contracts let by the munitions and supply department totalled $3,200,000,000.

Main increase in production would be in guns, tanks and planes, Mr. Howe said.

The cargo shipping program for 1942, involving production of 100

END OF "HANDS OFF" POLICY

Pressure On Eire For Sea, Air Bases Seen In Speech

By H. L. PERCY

Copyright, 1942, by British United Press and The Edmonton Bulletin.

LONDON, Jan. 7 — Reliable informants forecast today that President Roosevelt's promise of American troops for the British Isles would mean pressure on Eire for naval and airplane bases for American use.

It was suggested that the President's speech probably marked the beginning of the end of the "hands off" policy toward Eire which, according to belief here, Great Britain maintained principally to avoid precipitating a crisis that might have caused unfavorable reaction among Americans of Irish descent.

Informants said that even sentimental American feelings for the neutrality of Eire would be overshadowed by the present crisis and that the United States might join in putting pressure on Eire to concede bases which American bombing and patrol planes and warships could use.

It was added that any move was unlikely to materialize before American units reached this side of the Atlantic.

Informants said here the people of Eire probably would be more receptive to representations from the United States regarding bases than they have been to British suggestions.

But they added that there had been no indication that the government was even considering changing its policy, which was to fight anyone on either side, who violated Eire neutrality.

VICTORY IS TONIC

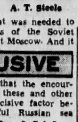

Defeat Of Nazis Aids Russ Morale

By A. T. STEELE

Copyright, 1942, by the Chicago Daily News and The Edmonton Bulletin.

KUIBYSHEV, Jan. 7. — Russian victories of the past three weeks have brought about a psychological transformation in Russia scarcely less significant than the victories themselves. This psychological lift is everywhere evident. It shines through the newspapers and it permeates the speeches of Soviet dignitaries. It is plainly reflected in the reinvigoration of the Soviet armies.

The first victories at Rostov and in the vicinity of Moscow brought cautious optimism. But as the Red army has gone from success to success, the Russians have grown more sure of themselves — more and more confident that what they have taken back they can hold.

A. T. Steele

The effect on morale has been cumulative. The recapture of Rostov gave just the moral stimulus that was needed to ensure the success of the Soviet counter-offensive at Moscow. And it is quite probable that the encouragement given by these and other victories was a decisive factor behind the successful Russian sea

It's WARM In Edmonton

WINNIPEG, Jan. 7.—(CP)—Temperatures from the head of the lakes to the Alberta foothills remained low last night as the cold spell in the west continued into its fifth day.

Broadview, Sask., was reported the coldest place in the west with 33 degrees below zero during the night. Yorkton, Sask., Regina, and Rivers, Man., were next with 30 below.

The Pas, Man., and Brandon, Man., had 30 below during the night. Prince Albert, Sask., recorded 31 below and Saskatoon -28.

The tempesyture was down to 25 below zero at Port Arthur and Winnipeg had it slightly easier at 26 below. At Fort William the mercury dipped to 28 below during the night.

In Alberta, Calgary reported 10 below zero and Edmonton three below.

LONDON BELIEVES

U.S. May Assist Drive In Europe

LONDON, Jan. 7.—(CP)—President Roosevelt's declaration that an American expeditionary force would be sent to Britain has "cinched" long-voiced predictions of a frontal assault this year upon Germany, qualified London observers said Tuesday night.

Noting the presence of 2,000,000 fully trained troops, including Canadians and Empire forces, already in these islands, plus 1,700,000 home guards ready to stand off any Nazi invasion, these informants asked:

"What other reason could there be for American contingents here unless it be to use Britain for a jumping-off place against the heart of the Axis?"

They pointed further to bases under construction in northern Ireland and strong United States forces in Iceland to support the contention that a British-American expeditionary force eventually would menace Germany from the west.

"With the Russians battering the German war machine in the east, it was said, "Hitler at last would be confronted with a gigantic allied squeeze play."

Weather Holding Up Libyan Drive

CAIRO, Jan. 7—(AP)—Poor visibility and stormy weather hampered operations of British ground and air forces which for days have been lashing at the main body of Lt.-Gen. Erwin Rommel's German and Italian forces concentrated near Agedabia, British headquarters said today.

Gas Rationing Starts April 1

OTTAWA, Jan. 7.—(CP)—Gasoline rationing will come April 1 as scheduled, Munitions Minister Howe said at a press conference today. He said it was impossible to estimate at this time just what the allotments of gasoline would amount to for the first rationing period.

SUPPLY SHIP, 2 TRAWLERS SUNK

Navy, Air Force Raid Norway

LONDON, Jan. 7—(CP)—A joint naval and Royal Air Force raid was carried out on Helle Fjord on the Norwegian coast yesterday.

A joint communique issued today announced one German supply ship of medium tonnage and two trawlers were sunk off the town of Floro.

A German canning factory also was damaged, but low visibility, which made shore targets difficult to see, caused naval units to do little but fire at another German factory.

In an effort to "intercept enemy shipping," light naval forces entered Helle Fjord, between Bergen and Trondheim, last night and spent some hours working close in shore in the inner channel looking for enemy supply ships, but found only one of medium tonnage off the town of Floro," the communique said.

LITTLE OPPOSITION

This ship was sunk along with two trawlers, which were alongside the canning factory.

Floro lies between Bergen and Aalesund.

The naval forces under the command of Capt. F. Todd, caught the enemy unprepared and encountered little opposition. Long-range fighters of the R. A. F. coastal command afforded the navy air protection and carried out valuable reconnaissance.

The enemy airdrome at Sola, near Stavanger, was attacked by R.A.F. bombers "to leave no chance of interference by the German air force.

The ships engaged in the expedition suffered neither casualties nor damage and all aircraft concerned returned to their bases.

Room 13 Shot Made Before Fatal Blast

NORDEGG, Alta., Jan. 7.—(CP)—Ominously numbered Room 13 was the spot where one or more electrically operated blasting shots were fired just before the explosion which killed 29 men in the Brazeau coal mine here Oct. 31, the Ewing Royal Commission was told today by J. S. Barton, a miner and member of the mine rescue team.

He told of cautiously entering the fourth left water level, the immediate area of the explosion, accompanied by other rescuers and of hearing a loud hiss, a "blower" or "feeder" of escaping gas. "It was the loudest and strongest blower I had heard in years," Barton testified at judicial inquiry to determine the causes of the disaster.

GAS CONDITIONS

Barton also said gas conditions were so compounded at another part of the mine, where he and another man were working earlier on the day of the explosion, that

500 Seek To Join R.C.A.F. In Two Days

With a large number of recruits from the Peace River district applying, a large staff at the R.C.A.F. recruiting station in this week coping with the greatest single rush of recruits since the early days of the war. More than 500 men have been handled in the past two days

Flt. Lt. H. E. Jones, officer commanding the recruiting here, is at a loss to account for the swelling volume of applicants. Entry of the United States into the war and the growing conviction that really total effort is required to win seems the most probable explanation for the rush, the officer said.

Many men who are unable to qualify for the R.C.A.F. are being urged to join the Canadian (Active) Army.

Applicants seeking to join the Canadian Women's Auxiliary Air Force must bring all documents required to the recruiting office before they will be permitted to fill out application forms. ASO. Winnifred Kirk, recruiting officer of the C.W.A.A.F. repeated Wednesday.

Applicants whose parents were not born in a country of the British Commonwealth of Nations must produce documentary evidence of citizenship.

Today's War Moves

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
Copyright, 1941, by British United Press

TEMPORARILY bad news from the Pacific is more than balanced by developments on the eastern front in Europe, where the Russians are demonstrating that Hitler's armies can be beaten.

Perhaps the most important news is from the Crimea where the Russians are conducting a drive which threatens to drive the Germans out of the peninsula.

Continuing Soviet gains in the north have been attributed partly to the severe winter weather and to a planned strategic withdrawal by the Germans to establish lines pending a new offensive in the spring.

DIFFERENT IN SOUTH

Even in the north, the German retreat appears at points to have exceeded any planned withdrawal. But in the south, withdrawal from the strategic Crimea obviously is no part of planned German strategy.

Record Budget Of 56 Billions Given Congress

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7—(AP)—Bespeaking the determination of the United States to "Pay whatever price we must to preserve our way of life," President Roosevelt called today for a war budget of $56,000,000,000 for the new fiscal year, $9,000,000,000 of new taxes on top of all existing taxes, and unprecedented borrowing that would send the federal debt above $110,000,000,000.

"This is a war budget," he said in his annual budget message to congress. "Its magnitude and composition depend on events at the battlefronts of the world . . . Nothing short of a maximum will suffice. I cannot predict ultimate costs because I cannot predict the changing fortunes of war. I can say only that we are determined to pay whatever price we must to preserve our way of life."

He added at a press conference that it was the biggest budget in the history of the world. Government estimates indicated it was

STRONG CHARGES

Molotov Indicts Huns For Crimes

By HENRY SHAPIRO

MOSCOW, Jan. 7.—(BUP)—Russia in one of the most terrible indictments in the history of modern warfare, charged the German armies and the German government today with cruelties and bestialities ranging from the stealing of children's toys to mass murder and mass destruction.

It promised in a formal note addressed by Foreign Minister Vlacheslav Molotov to the envoys of all countries with which Russia has relations, that the Russian people would never forget and never pardon what the Germans had done.

Molotov used approximately 7,000 words to describe "Pillage, ruination of the people and monstrous brutalities perpetrated by the German authorities everywhere on Russian territories they captured."

OMINOUS REMINDER

In an ominous reminder of the present march of the Red army toward Germany, he detailed the German manner of war as it had been revealed by reports of troops

J. Gillespie Estate Value Is $755,622

Federal and provincial treasuries will benefit by approximately $210,000 from succession duties to be paid on the estate of the late John Gillespie, president and general manager of the Gillespie Grain Co. Ltd., pioneer Edmonton resident and internationally-known grain merchant, who died on November 19 last. It is estimated that the provincial treasury will receive $123,000 and the federal treasury $85,000 from succession duties.

The estate is valued at $755,622.78 for probate purposes, and is made up substantially of shares in the Gillespie Grain Co., Ltd. These shares are valued at approximately $600,000. Other major items of the estate include $135,000 of life insurance, real estate and other assets valued at $27,000.

WIFE CHIEF BENEFICIARY

Chief beneficiary under Mr. Gillespie's will is his widow who receives more than half of the shares in the grain company, $15,000 of the insurance and most of the miscellaneous assets.

Substantial bequests were made to executive officers of the Gillespie Grain Co. Ltd., and provision is made for payment by the executors of a retirement allowance to staff members, the payment to be at the discretion of the executors and to be made having regard to the length and efficiency of the service rendered by the retiring employee.

DONATIONS TO CHARITY

The executors are directed and authorized to continue contributions to such charitable objects as the company contributed to during Mr. Gillespie's lifetime.

A substantial trust fund has been created out of the residue of the estate for the benefit of Mr. Gillespie's relations.

Probate papers were filed at the court house Wednesday by the law firm of Field, Nyndman and McLean, acting for the executors.

Six Canadians Drown Overseas

LONDON, Jan. 7—(CP)—Six Canadian soldiers drowned yesterday when a pontoon capsized in a Sussex river.

Three others were saved.

$200,000 Loss Is Reported In Fire At Delia

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

DRUMHELLER, Jan. 7.—Estimated loss of $200,000 was suffered in a fire at Delia, near here, early Wednesday which completely destroyed nine business premises. Only one business was left standing on the east side of the street, where the fire occurred.

The blaze destroyed the following businesses and their stocks: pool hall, Co-operative store, D. H. Campbell's store, W. G. Harcus' store, Grant Hardware, M. A. Lowe's law office, Hutt Coffee Shop, Knight's Confectionery, Miss Flott's Beauty Parlor and an empty store.

All that was left on this prosperous side of the business street was Gibson's garage.

FLAMES OUT OF CONTROL

As far as could be learned the blaze started midway in the block and worked both ways. The town's small fire fighting equipment consisting of four chemical engines manned by the citizens could not control the flames, but did great work in an effort to save as much as they could.

There were no accidents or mishaps reported and no person was injured during the fire.

R.A.F. Sinks Or Damages 35 Axis Ships In December

Raises To 77 Number Of Italian And Nazi Vessels Bombed In 2-Month Period

By LOUIS HUNTER

LONDON, Jan. 7.—(CP)—Royal Air Force planes sank or damaged 35 Axis vessels of all descriptions during December and raised to 77 the number of German and Italian ships destroyed or battered during the last two months of 1941, an air ministry summary of daily communiques revealed Tuesday night.

An estimate of the tonnage destroyed was not given and it was considered likely that in addition to specific sinkings named other vessels did not get away unscathed from the attacks.

The Air Force carried out its continued offensive against enemy shipping in the face of wintry weather which has prevailed for two months.

IN NORTH SEA

Twenty-four of the ships were attacked in the North Sea and off the Atlantic coast. They included supply ships, tankers, armed trawlers and anti-aircraft ships.

Eleven other vessels were bombed in the Mediterranean. These included merchant supply ships and a tanker.

The Royal Air Force also co-operated with the Royal Navy in an attack against Italian naval forces in which two cruisers were set afire and others possibly damaged.

Revised November figures show that 31 enemy ships were destroyed in the North Sea off the coasts of Holland, Belgium and France. Among these were supply and motor vessels, patrol ships, anti-aircraft and supply vessels and four naval ships.

In addition 11 more were attacked in the Mediterranean. These included merchant and supply ships and four naval vessels.

IN MIDDLE EAST

In the middle east where the R.A.F. was effectively engaged in support of the victorious British army in Libya, 78 targets were attacked on the occasions during December. Tripoli bore the brunt of the pounding with 10 attacks. Azedabia and Bardia had nine each, Benghazi eight, Derna seven. Attacks also were made on Italian embarkation ports and raiders visited Naples twice.

In the same war theatre 134 Axis aircraft were destroyed in air combat and three by gunfire. In addition large numbers were destroyed on the ground and many more were captured at airdromes abandoned by the fleeing Axis troops. Total casualties suffered by German and Italian air forces in the Libyan campaign were not assessed.

Britain's extensive operations in the Mediterranean theatre cost the R.A.F. 134 aircraft in air combat.

Dutch Indies Seen As Next Goal Of Japs

The bulletin also noted lively aerial reconnaissance over the far-flung Archipelago—citing the tipoff of an impending invasion—with the announcement that "enemy planes were observed over various parts of the outer possessions."

Tokyo imperial headquarters said Japanese troops who landed several days ago at Brunei in British Borneo, adjoining Netherlands Borneo, were "extending their field of operations." No details were given.

In smashing at Amboina, the Japanese were seeking to knock out one of the Indies bases from which U.S. army bombers may have been flying to attack Japanese warships in the Philippines.

RICHEST PRIZE

For Japan, the Indies with their treasure-trove of such vital war supplies as rubber, tin and oil would be one of the richest prizes in the Far East.

A U. S. war department communique disclosed Japanese naval units massed in Davao Bay included a battleship, five cruisers, six destroyers, 12 submarines and 12 transports—obviously a greater force than would be needed merely to support new landing operations in the Philippines.

Davao, at the southern tip of the Philippines, is 600 miles below the Manila fighting sector where Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces were reported still holding the Japanese at bay on the approaches to Bataan peninsula.

SERIOUS IN MALAYA

The Malaya situation continued serious, Tokyo claiming British air power in the peninsula had been driven to Singapore.

A further withdrawal of British forces in the eastern coast state of Pahang "some penetrations at one point" on the west coast were announced.

In central China, Chiang Kai-Shek's hard-fighting Chinese troops reported they had slain 7,000 more Japanese in the muddy Changsha, Hunan Province, trap. Chinese also reported they had cut the Changsha-Hankow rail line running through Yochow, 100 miles north-east of Changsha, in a raid on Japanese positions. Japanese were using the line to pull back their beaten forces which had slipped out of the trap, Chungking reported.

Today's War Moves

Winter cannot be blamed for the German reverses there because the climate is comparatively equable.

Russian success in the Crimea can only be attributed to military superiority. The Red army has pushed across the straits from the Caucasus and regained the whole Kerch peninsula of eastern Crimea. They have followed this with landings on the southwest and wrstern coasts and are breaking out of Sevastopol. The Invaders are being encircled.

If this Russian drive succeeds, it means that the Soviet Union still controls the Black Sea. It means that Hitler's way to the oil fields of the Caucasus, which he so desperately wants, is further barred, either through Russian territory or through Turkey. It especially means a delayed warning to the latter, should she have wavered in her decision to stay clear of the Axis. Finally, it means encouragement to all the over-run countries of Europe. Seething with revolt, they have been held down in part by the discouraged belief that the German armies are invincible.

SEGMENT OF WHOLE

The relation of the Russian campaign as an integral part of the war as a whole has been made abundantly clear. It is not so much a separate eastern front as a vital segment of the gigantic front which stretches around the world. It makes clearer the view that the war in the western Pacific is not a situation to be dealt with separately, but a part of the whole in which Russia is playing just as important a part as Britain, the United States and the Dutch.

This unity of purpose probably explains why Russia has not gone to war against Japan, and is not being urged to. Russia's job is to concentrate on defeating Hitler in Europe, with all the aid Britain and the United States can give. When the accumulated United States will be merely a mopping up operation, with China and Russia lending a hearty hand.

Adhere To Charter

LONDON, Jan. 7.—(CP)—The Danish council, representing the Free Danes in Britain and northern Ireland, Tuesday voted adherence to the Atlantic charter and the principles of the United Nations pact "just as if that declaration had been signed by a Free Danish government".

Room 13 Shot Made Before Fatal Blast

they both decided they would not fire any blasting shots, used in knocking down the coal.

"When one of the fire bosses asked us if we were ready to shoot, we said, 'no, we are not going to shoot,'" Barton testified, adding that he had noted gas traces in the mine at previous times but never to an extent worth worrying about until the morning of the disaster.

Dr. Louis Irsdin, doctor employed by the mine for the past four years, said many of the victims died of carbon monoxide poisoning. He said official reports by J. A. Kelso of Edmonton, Alberta's provincial analyst, showed that blood samples taken from several bodies were saturated with carbon monoxide to extents ranging from 10 to 68 per cent.

Barton on the stand more than an hour, told of walking slowly and with extreme caution, other trained rescuers with him, into the depths of the mine as soon as possible after the explosion. He said they found the body of John Armstrong, pit boss, about 30 feet distant from room 13. Later they found Armstrong's shot-firing cable near where his body had been located and a line of the cable was uncoiled and leading off almost to the face of room 13, Barton said.

"There was every indication that one or more shots had been fired and I would estimate the total was three," the miner said.

BIRD AFFECTED

He said they took a live canary in a cage into the affected area late in the day and the bird soon fainted. Barton said this is an infallible sign of the presence of carbon monoxide gas, to which canaries are highly susceptible.

George White, former miner and now manager of the Miners' Club, testified on his part in the rescue work. He is a member of the rescue team. The club of which he is manager is called the Nordegg Literary and Athletic Association.

TWO WITNESSES GIVE EVIDENCE IN BLAST

NORDEGG, Alta., Jan. 7.—(CP)—James M. Stewart, manager in the Brazeau coal mine where 29 men died in an explosion Oct. 31, told the one-man royal commission inquiring into the cause of the death yesterday "some obnoxious gas" which he thought was carbon monoxide made his legs "start to give out" underneath as he walked into the mine after the blast.

He told Mr. Justice A. F. Ewing of the appellate division of the Alberta supreme court of going into the explosion area without a gas mask and of finding a dead miner with his battery-powered safety lamp still burning on the ground beside him.

Stewart said the body was one of the Gervais brothers, Ray and Ralph, both formerly of Edmonton, who died in the explosion.

TECHNICAL DETAILS

Highly technical details of ventilation and mine construction occupied most of the session of the commission. The inquiry is expected to last 10 days or longer.

Mr. Justice Ewing in launching the hearing said the inquiry is an open one and that everyone with evidence to give "is at liberty to come forward."

The commission referred to the inquest held here Nov. 10 at which Dr. E. A. Braithwaite, chief coroner for Alberta, said he had the impression some of the witnesses were "holding back" in their testimony.

Mr. Justice Ewing said there is no reason for anyone to hold back and it is an offence, punishable by fine and imprisonment to interfere or attempt to interfere with any witness.

Mine Manager Stewart and Arthur McMullen, surveyor employed in the mine, were the only witnesses at the three-hour afternoon session.

Stewart told of being near the lamp-house above the mine-head when he was told at 9.10 a.m., Friday, Oct. 31, that he was wanted in the mine.

He said John China, chief timberman, told him he had heard a noise "Like a heavy shutting of a door." He asked the timberman what he meant and China replied that no miners had come out of the fourth left water level, 2,600 feet underground at the bottom of No. 1 slope.

"I knew then what he was talking about," said Stewart, who as mine manager is subordinate to General Manager John Shanks.

He told of his descent into the mine and said a "heavy haze" seemed to come from one of the "rooms" or mine workings, "but the ventilation seemed to me to be about normal."

Stewart said that when he saw a lamp burning some distance ahead of him as he proceeded alone into the deepest part of he mine, "I naturally shouted thinking there was someone in there." But he said when he went on he found a dead miner, his flaring lamp lying at his side.

"I turned him over and looked at him and saw at once that he was dead," the manager related.

LEGS GIVE WAY

"I was getting pretty cautious now, without a respirator and with just my safety lamp. I went a little farther on and then suddenly I could feel my legs start to give out under me. The power was going out of them. But my head was still clear."

Donald B. MacKenzie of Edmonton, counsel for the commission, asked Stewart what those symptoms meant to him.

"I knew it was a sign of some obnoxious gas in the air and it was affecting my blood," the manager answered.

"What gas?"

"I figured it was carbon monoxide."

He said he found several other bodies and the bodies of two horses in various parts of the mine, and discovered many timberings had been blown down but no evidence of rock-falls. He "doubled back a bit" and sat down until the weakness left him. While he was sitting he was joined by General Manager Shanks and others who had rushed into the pit to investigate.

Stewart said there were not many "stoppings" partitions used in controlling the direction of ventilating air currents, in the old abandoned workings situated above the present workings.

AIR CIRCULATES

"Isn't it reasonable to suppose there would be gas in there?" asked A. L. Smith of Calgary, counsel for District 18 of the United Mine Workers of America.

"No," Stewart said, "I have inspected there and there is no gas at all. Fresh air circulates freely and there is no chance of an accumulation of gas."

Mr. Smith contended it was likely the air in those old workings would move "very slowly" but he did not press the point.

Stewart and McMullen both described phases of the mines ventilation system, which features those of powerful fans, driven by electrical motors to suck air from the mine-head through all the working areas.

McMullen identified plans, prepared by himself showing the ventilation system, the electrical apparatus installed throughout the mine and the general layout of the workings on Oct. 31. One large drawing showed the positions of all the bodies of men and horses killed in the blast.

Mr. Mackenzie said he intends to call up 70 to 80 witnesses. Yesterday's afternoon hearing was held in the little mining settlement's community hall and theatre which after the explosion was turned into an emergency morgue.

British Not Behind Axis Enemy In Ingenuity In Types Of Mines

LONDON, Jan. 7.—(CP)—An authoritative source said today that British ingenuity by no means behind the Axis in ingenuity in devising improved types of mines or in counter-measures to counteract enemy mines.

He was commenting on the loss of the British cruiser Neptune and the destroyer Kandahar in an enemy minefield, announced on January 2.

"If the Admiralty were able to publish enemy losses in our minefields it would make very interesting reading," he added.

Italians Can't Believe F.D.R. Plans Possible

By The Canadian Press

Italian authorities today called President Roosevelt's proposal for 185,000 planes and 120,000 tanks in 1942 and 1943 "sensational, spectacular, or a typical North American brand" but expressed unbelief in its realization and carefully kept the figures out of the controlled press.

German commentators vaguely referred to it as a "fairly substantial" speech, but said in general it was merely a warmed up version of old Roosevelt speeches. Germans, too, were not allowed to know American production plans.

"YANKS ARE COMING"

London newspapers rejoiced in the promise of another A.E.F. in the British Isles and dipped into their files of 1917 for stories and pictures of the first A.E.F. arriving in England.

On through the world, from Cuba to China, there was acclaim from the United Nations and their friends for the great arms program announced yesterday by the President.

REPICTURES PAST

London headline writers, editorial writers and cartoonists joined to impress upon the British people the magnitude of the United States war effort.

The Daily Express, one of Lord Beaverbrook's papers, used as its banner headline: "A.E.F. coming to Britain."

It reprinted a story of Aug. 16, 1917, about the arrival of American troops in London and their march past King George V, Beneath that, it carried in italics the chorus of "Over There." In other parts of the paper were reproduced pictures of U.S. troops in Britain during the First Great War.

A four-column cartoon on the editorial page showed an eagle-borne United States soldier greeted by a British trooper. At the back of the latter squatted a grinning, helmeted lion with the union jack flapping from his tail.

END OF ISOLATIONISM

Another London newspaper, the Daily Telegraph, said editorially the United States had been summoned "to make the greatest national effort the world has ever known . . . There is no discharge in this war for Briton or American."

The Times called President Roosevelt's message inspiring. The Daily Mirror said: "It marks the end of American isolationism. We rejoice at their awakening. And with all faith in common victory, with all cordiality in comradeship, we welcome the coming of America to help in manning the essential fortress of the world."

The Daily Mail said the Roosevelt program was "staggering in size and boldness" and "it will certainly astonish the Axis."

"At last we can feel we are no longer alone," it said. "The Yanks are coming!"

The British Broadcasting Corporation announced it would direct broadcast on the message to Germany "hour by hour."

DEATH KNELL OF AXIS

In the western hemisphere the tone of comment from south of the Rio Grande was typified by Panama Star-Herald editorial which said:

"It could well be called a message to the world on the state of the world . . . It virtually sounded the death-knell of the Axis powers."

Cuban newspapers said the armament production President Roosevelt outlined would overwhelm the totalitarian powers.

In far-off Chungking, a Chinese official commented: "It's as gratifying as it is staggering."

who had retaken villages and towns.

It was not, he said, the mere excesses of isolated and undisciplined military units or individual German officers and soldiers.

"Abundant documentary material at the disposal of the Soviet government testifies to the fact that plunder and ruination of the population accompanied by bestial outrages and massacres are widespread in all districts which fell under the heel of the German Nazis," Molotov said. "Irrefutable facts prove that the regime of plunder and sanguinary terrorism against the non-combatant population of occupied villages and towns represents a definite system devised beforehand and approved by the German government and German command.

Through the whole note, paragraph by paragraph, ran a burning anger and a determination to exact vengeance to the fullest.

"The Soviet government and its organs keep a detailed record of all the villainous crime of Hitler's armies, for which the indignant Soviet people justly demand retribution and for which they will obtain it," Molotov said.

The note gave names of German units and officers in describing the cold blooded mass destruction.

The note told how the Germans had robbed the people of "their houses, cattle, grain, everything down to the last baby's shirt and last handful of grain" and left them to wander in the woods in the Russian winter.

CHUNGKING, Jan. 7—(AP)—Chinese listened with joy and amazement early today to President Roosevelt's message to Congress and then commented: "It's as gratifying as it is staggering."

Chinese pride swelled at his praise of Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek's armies and hopes soared that the arsenal of democracy soon would provide the tools China has needed so badly for a knockout blow against her better equipped foe.

vessels of close to 10,000 tons, was already an "all out" program and could not be increased greatly in view of the naval construction under way.

NEW SHIPYARD

A new shipyard for cargo vessels was being built at Bickerdike Pier in Montreal, to be owned by the government and managed by the Dominion Bridge Company.

"We are expanding ship capacity just as rapidly as personnel and equipment permit," the minister said.

Keels were about to be laid at an eastern Canadian port for two Tribal class destroyers. This work had been delayed by other operations but the turbines and other equipment had been in production for some time and this was well advanced.

Mr. Howe said there was "nothing secret" about his talks in Washington with Lord Beaverbrook, British supply minister.

ASKED "RAISE SIGHTS"

"He was here to ask us all to raise our sights on what we could produce," said Mr. Howe. "What he has accomplished was indicated in the President's speech yesterday.

"He discussed the same program with me and we are stretching our production in a similar way. We can do it but not to the same extent as the United States because we were farther up on full production than the United States."

ing north from Sevastopol to combat the threat at their rear.

In the Ukraine, Hitler's headquarters admitted that the Soviet counter-offensive had breached German lines northeast of Kharkov, but declared that German troops counter-attacked and succeeded in straightening out the front.

Meanwhile, diplomatic quarters in Turkey said general mobilization was under way in Rumania and Hungary, with the Germans trying to muster all possible manpower to check the retreat in Russia.

Soviet informants said Russia expected to drive the invaders behind the Leningrad-Smolensk-Dnieper river line—more than 200 miles west of Moscow—around Feb. 1, "turning the Nazi retreat into a military catastrophe in the bitterest part of the winter."

(Soviet reports to London declared the pace of the Russian advance was increasing, with reinforcements pouring steadily into Red army lines. Pincers tactics, these accounts said, are harassing Germans destructively in the Crimea, southernmost of the combat zones.)

(Geographical changes of the front were not detailed by the Soviet information bureau in its early morning report. The main Russian lines, anchored at Leningrad, run 280 miles northeast to Vyazkoe, 45 miles west of Kalinin, and Staritsa, Volga River village. There begins the sweeping arc which menaces German positions at Mozhaisk, 57 miles west of Moscow. On this arc, Russian troops are garrisoned again at Volokolamsk, Narofominsk, Borovsk, Maloyaroslavets, Kaluga and Mozelsk, the latter knifing into Germany-held territory 140 miles southwest of Moscow.

(The Red army line dips back 25 miles to the village of Belev; then 150 miles southward to Orel, 40 miles east of Kursk; 25 miles south along the Donets river to near Stalino; southeast 80 miles to the Azov sea port of Taganrog. The BBC said the Russians had crossed the upper Donets, and this was perhaps in the region of Kharkov, industrial city 220 miles northeast of Taganrog.)

The Way To Victory

President Roosevelt's address to Congress on "the state of the Union" was also, because of the circumstances of the day, an address to the nations on the state of the world. Alike to friend and foe he made plain, to the accompaniment of ringing applause from the members, that the one all-engrossing item on the agenda of the United States is to push the fighting against the Axis powers until victory is achieved, such a victory as will make possible the establishment of an enduring peace.

The figures which Mr. Roosevelt gave as to the production this year and next of planes, tanks, guns and merchant ships are astounding. To no other country in the world would such an undertaking be possible. The plan simply means that productive industry in the United States is to be centred on war equipment, with civilian requirements curtailed as this may require.

The cost of turning out these supplies, while carrying on war on a broadening scale, is placed at $56,000,000,000 during the coming fiscal year. So stated, the figure is one only bewildering to the average person. But what they will mean to the individual in terms of taxes and bonds is comprehensible to Canadians, because we are already spending at nearly two-thirds this rate in proportion to our population.

There are to be no restrictions as to where United States fighting forces are employed. The enemy is to be hit and hit again wherever and whenever we can reach him," whether in the Orient or in Europe or elsewhere.

The objective — not merely to win battles and "call it a day," but "to maintain the security of the peace which will follow."

This is the program by which the United States is to participate in the war; the forecast summary of what the Japanese accomplished in their attack on Pearl Harbor. It is a program of all-out participation in an all-out war. Nothing less than this was to be expected, for the nation is united as it never was before and stirred by resentment never so keen.

With the United States thus setting the pace, it will be the part of Canada and each other Allied country to bring its exertions into line, as population and resources permit. That done, we may count with assurance on smashing the aggressor, conspiracy, however long it may take; and also on establishing conditions which will save the next generation from another "bath of blood."

Petain Next?

The Paris newspapers, which are of course patterned to suit the Nazi rulers of unoccupied France, are waging a hot campaign against Marshal Petain, because of his New Year speech. What particularly angers them is his plea that Berlin ease off in its treatment of the French people "so that France's dignity can be restored".

Just why so obvious a statement of cause and effect should provoke wrath anywhere in France would be puzzling if the position of the critics were not known. Men who write with a firing squad just around the corner cannot afford to hesitate when they are told to call black white. That the dignity of France is in need of restoring, and never can be restored while Frenchmen are treated as serfs, is hardly a subject for argument.

Is it just because Petain thus confessed that the armistice he engineered has reduced France to the status of a slave state that the Nazi authorities are subjecting him to a blitzkrieg of condemnation? That is not likely. No one knows better that this is the position to which France was deliberately reduced, and in no quarter can the fact give greater satisfaction than to the gloaters at Paris.

What is evidently intended is that Petain be so completely discredited he will resign, or can be compelled to resign. He has served Berlin's turn, but circumstances have arisen in which it would be advantageous to bring all France directly under Nazi rule, or Laval rule, which would be the same thing. It looks very much as though Petain is slated to walk the plank.

Tokyo Still Waits

At the end of four weeks of fighting the Japanese are not by any means having things all their own way, which they no doubt hoped. Nor so much their own way as they might with reason have expected.

In China they suffered a staggering blow at the week-end. In Malaya their overwhelming numbers have not yet gained them a position from which to attack Singapore. In the Philippines the American and native troops are keeping a Japanese army of 175,000 men busy. And five hundred miles south of Manila a squadron of United States bombers blasted a Nippon battleship and sank a destroyer.

In all areas the carefully prepared Japanese attack is at its peak. In none of them has Allied strength been heavily increased; in some not at all. How the situation will be affected as Allied air power, naval power and manpower is reinforced must be plain even to the "dazzled and dizzy" expansionists at Tokyo. The going must obviously get harder for them as resistance develops, and the difficulties and risks of maintaining large forces at the end of long communication lines multiply.

That the plotters are quite satisfied with the advantages they have gained through treachery is to be doubted. Some advantages they have gained, of course, but none of decisive import, and victory is no nearer than grasp than it was four weeks ago. The best they can see in prospect is prolonged and growingly bitter fighting in a remote theatre. That is not what they hoped for when they broke up a peace conference of their own proposing by stabbing a friendly nation in the back.

The Allies have had bad news from the South Pacific. They expected that. But the listeners in Tokyo must be feeling some apprehension as they wait for the news they hoped would come speedily when they launched their assassin blows.

As a disagreeable variant from shooting French hostages, Nazi firing squads in occupied France are now engaged in shooting their comrades for "mutiny". Why or how they mutiny is not stated; perhaps they have not shown a satisfactory enthusiasm for murdering Frenchmen who have committed no crimes. There must be here and there a man with a conscience even in the Nazi uniform.

Despite the absence of the usual stock show at the Summer Fair, the Exhibition Association reports a surplus slightly more than $14,000 from the operations in 1941. This compares with $10,301 in 1940. The fall show had a small balance on the right side, while the poultry show and spring show produced deficits aggregating about $1,100. There is nothing in the figures to show a financial reason for suspending the Summer Fair, as has been suggested.

It took the Norwegian team exactly 29 minutes to pull the Canadian team off their feet at the New York tug-of-war recently. The Scotland team from Denmark in eight minutes; the Americans from the English in 35 minutes. The German and Swedish teams pulled for 39 minutes, the former winning, and the Italians beat the Irish in 39 minutes.

Calgary Tribune: It is reported that there are 137 charges against Commissioner Herchmer and that the offences alleged are of a most miscellaneous character. Chief among those who have been instrumental in bringing the charges are N. F. Davin, M.P.; C. E. D. Woods, T. C. Johnson and Z. T. Woods. The charges have been brought against Assistant Commissioner William Herchmer.

Mr. Gosling, who is inspecting oats on the government contract for South Africa, was in town Monday and Tuesday looking over the situation.

The hockey team went to Strathcona on New Year's day to play the return game with the Shamrocks and proceeded to again do up that aggregation, by a score of 6 to 4. The game was a fairly warm one, Messrs. Kent of Strathcona and McLeod of Edmonton being consigned to the fence during the first half and Richards of Strathcona and Inglis of Edmonton occupying the same conspicuous perch during a portion of the second half.

A meeting was held at Indian Head on the 18th ult., for the purpose of discussing the annexation of a portion of the Territories to Manitoba. Premier Roblin of Manitoba and Premier Haultain of the Territories were the speakers. The meeting was probably the largest ever held in the Territories, and intense interest was developed.

Union With United States?

Urges Governments to Consider Early Merging of Canada With Southern Neighbor

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor, Bulletin: Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt are conferring in Washington. The main topic no doubt is the conduct of the war from now on, but it may be assumed that a lot of the talk will be about the new world to be builded after the war. Union talk now is rife in the air, as well as among many international Americans, there may be some talk to that effect at the White House.

A union between Great Britain and the United States might not be feasible due to differing traditions, etc., but the Dominion of Canada is a different proposition. Two peoples could hardly be more akin in outlook, economic interests and military position, than the people of Canada and the United States, and Messrs. Churchill, Roosevelt and Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King might well consider the possibility of such a merger.

The union would no doubt cause some friction; border states might howl about invasion of their markets on the knocking down of tariff barriers. Quebec which has a state church would have to be allowed to keep it, and others. But the net result would be a huge and integrated North American nation which could organize its own defenses on a continental scale.

Russia may emerge from the world conflict as the dominant power in Europe, on our west we may be threatened with a coalition dominated either by Chinese or Japanese.

In the new world which we all hope for, it will be a fine piece of insurance to have Canada and the United States lined up side by side in a close union for defense of the North American way of life.

Praises Editorial

Editor, Bulletin: Your page one editorial of Saturday, January 3rd, is worthy of the highest commendation and allow me to offer my congratulations.

The remarks you make have needed saying for a long time and we hope will have the effect of stirring public opinion up to the point where an overwhelming demand will be made to correct the disgraceful condition which now exists.

No nation can ever call itself civilized, much less Christian, which does not care for its aged and needy.

The constructive nature of your criticism is also good. One of the worst aspects of any remedial legislation of recent years has been the horde of officials and inspectors in connection with it, that makes administration more expensive than the benefits given. Great your suggestion is along the right lines.

Japanese and Radios

Editor, Bulletin: I hear that the Japanese in B.C. are still allowed to keep their short-wave radios. They still are able to listen to Tokyo, hearing all the propaganda that the Axis put out. Why haven't the authorities looked into this matter?

The States have not taken away the Japs' cameras, as well as all their radios.

The people seem to be alive to the danger. But the government, who are supposed to be looking after our affairs, seem to be waiting for another Pearl Harbor.

Not Relief

Editor, Bulletin: Having been a member of the Alberta Legislature from 1930 to 1935, I wish to bring to the attention of the members who sat with me at that time, and when we were debating relief in 1932 and onward to 1935, also debating the returned soldiers who were made hoboes out of after the last war—those men riding the rods, standing on street corners in rags and begging; then when the relief came up in 1932, for one in the legislature, fought against it tooth and nail.

I proposed work and wages for every able-bodied man in the Dominion of Canada because Canada was supposed to be a free country and I made the statement: "We have a country larger than the United States with over 600,000 square miles, with ten millions of people in it and if we cannot find work for these people in a country as large as we have, if they have to live on $7.00 or $8.00 a month as some of them have to do, then it would be just as well to give our country away to some other country who would give them working wages, or they will take it away from us in the near future."

At that time Premier Brownlee, who was Premier of Alberta at that time, asked me the question: "Where is the money coming from?" and I replied "from the same place it did in 1914 to fight a war that accomplished nothing." But they continued with their scheme of relief, the same thing that ever happened to any country. They even sent able-bodied men out in camps at 20 cents a day. I believe it was the worst thing any government could do. It would spoil the morale of our youth, which it has done, without a doubt in the world, and sent them riding the rods instead of the returned soldier had done before them.

I would like to make another statement and I believe it seems to be one that the statements I made from 1932 o 1935 are coming very true, and something must be done at once for a complete war effort. What I mean by that is, the Federal government should take the finance and natural resources of the country, or in other words, consolidate finance and natural resources together with man and woman power and put them in training at once as I proposed to do with the unemployed in 1932 when I made the statement in the legislature that I would rather see my sons if they were forced to go on relief, go into camps at $1.10 a day as our soldiers received in 1914, with food, clothing and shelter, and train them, not for war, but for self-defence; to build roads and all kinds of public works, because Canada has become a nation and in the near future we will have to defend this Canada of ours—and what with? We have absolutely nothing. If we had started training our youth at that time instead of sending them on relief we could now have quite an army fit for service today.

If the above all-out policy is put into effect there would five from my family in the last war and there would be twelve in this one—thirteen including myself.

I hope and pray that something of this sort will come into effect because if not, the statement I made in 1933 will surely come true.

Some Questions

Editor, Bulletin: Why did Canada levy a head-tax of $500 on Chinese immigrants, and exclude their wives? Many of them came from Hong Kong, a British possession (or used to be).

Why did we allow the Japs free entrance with their wives?

Why did Australia keep the Japs out?

Finances and War

Editor, Bulletin: It is stated that Premier Aberhart's remarks concerning war finance tend to cause a lack of confidence in war-time investment; the present writer cannot agree, i.e., that they must necessarily do so.

If newspapers fearing this effect would verify, by reference to the proper man concerned, his exact meaning; the damage, if any, could surely be avoided.

Assuming your eavesdropping in getting at the truth of this matter, it is suggested that Mr. Aberhart be requested to answer the following questions:

You were quoted, in a recent speech, as follows: "Experience of past wars has taught us that, under the present monetary system, huge national war debts are piled up . . . and that these debts can never be repaid. . . ."

In order to avoid confusion would you state just what you mean when you say that "these debts can never be repaid."

(1) Do you mean that an amount equal to the original loans will always be owed by the government to some constituent of the financial structure?

(2) If so, is it true that an individual investor would receive interest, as due, and, at maturity, be paid the principal of his investment?

(3) If this is true, how does the government get the money to do so?

The premier's answers may be anticipated, for we all know that it is a fact that the original debts for the Battle of Waterloo; for the South African War; for the Great War 1914-18, are still outstanding.

We also know that individual investors are always paid, both interest and principal.

The answer to the third question would clear up the second, for the government simply renews the loans at maturity, to pay the individual investors; but note that the amount of the original loans are not reduced, even though millions of dollars had been paid, in interest, over the years.

If newspapers would explain this process, no lack of confidence would develop.

Under the present system, or under a monetary reform, which the government would be safe. But under the latter, no ballooning of debt would result—as time went on; with progressive enlargement of the people, to the monetary power.

Please think this over: The national debt of Canada has increased since 1914 by over 500%.

In Premier Aberhart's view the federal government has the legal power to issue its own debt-free money? Who will say in his heart, "it can't be done."

Clear Thinking as Essential to Victory as Straight Shooting

By HAROLD L. WEIR

Yesterday I tried to show, in this space, the imperative need for a social objective in this war. I pointed out that our young people would never develop that wholehearted zeal for offense, (as contrasted with defence), which is essential to victory, until they are made to see that the winning of the war will mean the attainment of some of those social purposes of which they dreamed in times of peace.

Harold L. Weir

In some way, their war life will have to be made an extension, a continuation or even a consummation of their peace life. Somewhere at the end of the war-road must lie the answer to those social perplexities that have bedeviled youth for the past twenty years.

This means that at least half of the war effort must be an intellectual effort. It must be an intellectual effort, first to solve the economic problems which always threaten social security, and, secondly, to keep burning those fires of enlightenment which alone can consume the shackles of world slavery which Hitler would put upon us.

Both victory and progress depend upon a state of mind.

The machinery for inculcating a wholesome and vigorous state of mind is no less important than the machinery for turning out shells and guns and tanks.

Universities

In this latter respect, it seems to me that the universities have become the very keystone of our victory structure. Certainly they face a far bigger job, during the next few years, than institutions of learning have had to do since the mediaeval Renaissance.

Indeed, the task they have to accomplish is not unlike the task undertaken-by the mediaeval universities. Those ancient seats of learning made it their business to straighten out the kinks in human minds. They placed less emphasis on instruction than on the process of thought.

They conceived it their duty less to impart facts than to explain the meaning and relation of facts, less to teach professions than to teach the art of thinking.

In a similar way, our modern universities will have to subordinate the production of professional men to the production of men and women who can think clearly and vigorously and fearlessly.

It is true that physicians and engineers and economists will have to be turned out in great numbers. But even this is a subsidiary education business to the turning out of young folk who possess a healthy, honest and courageous philosophy of life.

In these latter years, too much of the Prussian philosophesi poison has seeped into our university life. There has been an over emphasis on the Hegelian brand of materialism, the Nietschean creed of force and the antisemiticism and despair of lesser "Aryan" seers.

There has been an infiltration of that humanism which scoffs at the trinitarian doctrine of three Gods in one Person and yet, cheerfully and inconsistently, swallows the notion of a god composed of two billion persons, indivisible and of one substance.

The indivisible, in this latter case, as the war shows, seems to have discovered the faculty of dividing itself pretty sharply.

It has always been my belief that inspiration is a higher function of any university than instruction. This would appear to be a good time to get back to that conception.

Persecution

As far back as 1933, Hitler manifested a consciousness of the menace to his doctrine contained in the free thought of the universities.

Academic territories, therefore, were among the first to be taken as victims of the Gestapo.

It was necessary to strangle the voice of rational objection, to silence the men who could expose the absurdities in Mein Kampf. It was necessary, if Hitler was to succeed, to murder thought.

Thus, from the very moment he came into power, Hitler began to force the universities to twist their learning into the ugly pattern of his dialectic.

The claim of Nazidom to have discovered the ultimate truths of political philosophy and to have come to a final reckoning with economics, geo-politics, sociology, anthropology and theology, brought the healthy period of intellectual enquiry to a dismal end.

The schools and universities were crammed with demagogues and intellectual prostitutes. The professors who continued to stand for the freedom of the human mind and the human will were thrown into concentration camps or summarily shot.

Antidote

Hitler's conviction that the antidote to the Nazi venom lay in the universities is of high significance to us.

For if Hitler debased the universities in order to survive, it follows that a stimulation of our universities will help to bring about his destruction.

It should be the duty of our centres of learning to concentrate as never before on a solution to our economic problems in order to give our young men that social objective without which they cannot fight well.

It should be the duty of our educational machinery to clear out of every young mind those muddled doctrines that prevent us from understanding the sweetness of liberty and the beauty of life.

Enlightenment is our greatest weapon against Hitler and those vicious things for which Hitler stands.

This should be the great age of the universities. Nothing should be permitted to tie their hands.

Strike Of German Generals Offers Allies Big Opportunity

Intense Political Warfare Could Set Up Reactions in Germany Against Hitler

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

Despite events in the East, we must not be deflected from the theatre of war in the West where the situation of Germany is worse than is apparent on the surface.

In order to understand it it is necessary to recall events and reconstruct the present on that basis and in logic.

From the beginning Hitler's relations with the army have been strange. In one sense they made him — as a mass-leader and dictator — subject to what they considered the unsolderly qualities of the civilian. But they have never trusted him. He became chancellor after long resistance by Hindenburg and only after he had falsely promised that he would restore the monarchy.

Dorothy Thompson

His first clash was with the generals who forced him to liquidate the rival storm troop leadership, in 1934. When Goering used the occasion to purge two generals as well, Streicher and Von Bredow—they were defiantly rehabilitated in honorable memory by the army.

Secret Warning

As early as 1937 agents of the generals were secretly warning the French and British and a few journalists that German rearmament was going too far, and were actually trying to persuade the western powers to clamp down on Hitler. They had become appalled at what he was doing to the German nation over which he held so magnetic a away. They feared he would lead the nation into a war of unlimited dimensions.

Every step forward encountered opposition from the army. The generals Fritsch refused to undertake the Austrian coup. Beck resigned over Czechoslovakia. And again in 1939 the generals warned the British and French that Munich would mean war, not peace.

Hitler's speech on September 26, 1938, in the Sportspalast, Berlin—the speech making war inevitable, and answering President Roosevelt's peace plea over the Sudeten question—was not attended by single army officer and Hitler spoke as though he were the only military element.

From the outbreak of war Hitler's Russian campaign no more was heard of opposition from generals. Generals Keitel and Brauchitsch found they could handle Hitler only by treating him as a master-mind and, after putting their own military suggestions into his hands, effusively credit him with "genius." This fantastic theatre convinced the rest of the world of Hitler's military genius, but it did not convince the generals, who knew who was responsible for the succession of brilliant military victories.

First Break

The first break after the war began came over Russia. The Yugoslav revolt had completely diverted German strategy and prolonged the Balkan campaign nearly a month. The Russian campaign opened too late—the October offensive was a terrible mistake.

Germany has lost in Russia from one and a half to two million men in killed, wounded and prisoners. What do these losses mean?

Hitler established universal service in 1935. The classes called up then and subsequently were of youths born in world war years, when the birth rate was very low. His really thoroughly trained young troops have never been more than three millions and have been the shock battalions in every campaign, as the death notices in German papers have shown. These troops have been reduced by a full third in the Russian campaign, and it is now necessary to throw in reserves from older ranks, married men with families, who are not Nazis.

Hitler's speech on December 12th is unique among his utterances, as a self-apology. His message of December 19th, taking over sole command in order to bring a "turning point," admits defeat in a series of nothing but official victories, and his mention of "army and Elite Guard" in one breath is bad news for Germany.

Against Adventures

Why have the Field Marshal and other generals quit in the middle of the main campaign? For the same reason Schleicher was liquidated and Fritsch and Beck resigned. They have refused to sacrifice the German nation to any more adventures. They will neither accept responsibility nor obey orders. They have not been court-martialed or dismissed. They have gone on strike.

The war in the west could, I believe, end much more quickly than we dream of with a war of nerves—a great political war—brilliantly and systematically pursued. For the first time since the war began there is a first rate chance for Britain, the United States, and Russia, by sheer political warfare, backed up by unremitting military activity, to overthrow the whole beastly Nazi regime, and get a real peace—not a "negotiated" peace with Hitler, but a peace that would save the German nation, as a nation along with all nations.

It is lamentable that so few men in any western foreign offices know so little about the real social forces in Germany, about the real mind of the people. What the army means in the German mind is hardly less than what the nation itself means. The dismay engendered by the strike of the generals can only be measured if one thinks what the people would have said had Hindenburg and Ludendorff resigned in the middle of the last war. They would have said: "The Kaiser has gone crazy."

And, you can bet they are saying that about Hitler today.

Ideas are as necessary to win this war as weapons—there are too few being used.

Last Rites Held For G. Milne

JASPER—Funeral of G. Milne was held from the United Church Friday. Rev. N. D. McInnis had charge of the service. Deceased has been a resident of Jasper for a considerable number of years and was highly respected. He was employed at the C.N.R. shops here but has been in failing health for over a year. Masonic rites were conducted at the graveside by Brother Ed. Neighbour. Mr. Milne leaves his wife, one son at Kamloops, B.C., and a brother Alec at Vancouver.

Miss Charlotte Sherriff entertained at a handkerchief shower at the weekend for Miss Ruth Webb who has left Jasper to train in the University hospital, Edmonton. Lunch was served by Miss Sherriff, assisted by Miss Betty Jacobson. Amongst those present were Misses R. Webb, B. Jacobson, N. Hodgson, V. Lavery, H. Cottam, D. Sutten, J. Bowser, V. Hardicoph, B. Whitten and Mrs. H. Boyd.

Alberta District News In Brief

Penhold Airmen Town Visitors

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE—Almost every home in town and many in the country, had airmen from the R.A.F. school at Penhold for the five days leave at Christmas and New Year's and the boys tried out Canada's winter sports. Many of them had never seen ice or snow before.

Turkey with trimmings is a feast to boys from a country on rations, and one young pilot confessed that he had gained two pounds a week since he had been here. Many Canadian dishes are strange to them, but they try everything and have quickly acquired a taste for food they do not have at home. At first, they wanted tea at every meal, now they take coffee. The boys said they will be back for week-ends whenever they get leave.

The Women's Institute elected the following officers for the coming season: President, Mrs. James Horner; first vice-president, Mrs. H. Burn; second vice-president, Mrs. Ernest Ross; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Frank Day; councillors, Mrs. A. J. Nile, Mrs. E. E. Crowder, Mrs. T. G. Ogden; auditor, Mrs. Gordon Sorenson. The society sent out six Christmas hampers and will send cigarettes to local boys who are overseas.

House Saved In Car Oil Blaze

WHITECOURT — Heating the cylinder oil to make the car start easier during the recent cold snap proved costly for Eric Hedin of the House Mountain district. The oil had been placed on the stove in Mr. Hedin's cabin to warm up whilst chores were being completed before setting out for town. Upon opening the door later on he found that the whole of the interior of the building was ablaze. Being unable to enter he closed the door thinking all was lost.

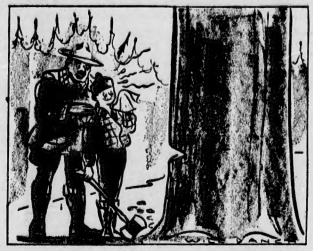

Mrs. V. E. Barrow noticed the flames from her home near by and quickly "manned the pump" in order that an effort could be made to save the building. The well went dry just as the desperate struggle came to a successful end, the last few sparks being put out by the contents of a hot water bottle.

The building was saved but practically all of the owner's personal effects were destroyed.

Forced down by poor visibility, a plane bound for Prince George, B.C., landed on the McCoy farm a mile east of Whitecourt on New Year's day. The journey was resumed the following day.

Operations commenced Tuesday on the "green chain" in the lumber yard of the Whitecourt lumber company. This is the apparatus on which lumber from bush sawmills is trimmed, graded and sorted in preparation for piling in the drying yard. A considerable quantity of lumber from the Blue Ridge district has been shipped in and is stacked to ensure continuous work for the chain crew if the supply from the bush camps should happen to be held up by breakdowns or unfavorable weather.

EDMONTON SKETCHES - - By Will Danch

"It's not so hard, boy. Just imagine you're Johnny Winterburn, the bowling fan, and this is one of the ten-pins!"

Old Soldiers Sponsor Smoker At Northville

NORTHVILLE—Veterans of the district, with serving soldiers as guests, celebrated the holiday season with a social smoker held at Wildwood under the auspices of the Veterans' Volunteer Reserve of Northville and Wildwood. A number of young soldiers home for Christmas leave were guests, while a feature of the proceedings was a bridal march headed by Pte. Stan Holtby and his bride, the former Miss Judith Barnes of Leithbridge, who were married earlier in the day.

Heartiest cheers of the evening were given for Major A. P. Chatsell, D.S.O., officer commanding the South Edmonton battalion, V.V.R., whose practical assistance made possible the success of the smoker.

Jack Starling, of Entwistle, a former Welsh soldier, made a hit with his impersonation of Hitler. Other artists who contributed to the success of the evening were Mrs. Durbin, Mrs. McNeil, the Bowen brothers of Lloydminster, Sask., on Christmas leave, and Lance-Corpl. H. E. Wheele, R.C.E. Lunch was served by a committee consisting of Mrs. E. Trott, Mrs. C. Gates, Mrs. Carlson, Mrs. A. Holtby, Mrs. E. Stafford and Mrs. Wheele. Ernie Trott was organizer.

Honor Roll

BAWLF—Local boys in His Majesty's forces include:

Overseas: O. M. Bowman, Richard Howey, P. Swinton, and G. Sutherland; Canada: Roderick MacIntyre, Clarence Soberg, V. Harvey, C. Thompson, M. Olson, Eugene Meadahl, Pat MacIntyre, Donald Anderson, Donald McIlveen, Merrill Nelson, Donald Toreson, Ralph Kirkpatrick, Bert Eggen, Freddy Bain, Lawrence Hanson, Melvin Erickson, Ernest Marsh, Yngvar Fadum, Arnold Gilroy, Alfred Lyness.

Two Injured In Bashaw Accident

BASHAW—Mrs. Frank Nolan and Miss Dorothy Nolan received serious injuries when their car skidded and turned over. Mrs. Nolan suffered a broken collar bone, and was badly shaken up and Miss Nolan suffered from a fractured bone near the thigh. They were both taken to Mirror for medical attention and later Miss Nolan was taken to an Edmonton hospital for further treatment.

Former Resident Dies In Victoria

VICTORIA, Jan. 7—(CP)—Funeral services will be held today for Miss Winnifred M. Fairman, 68, who died here Sunday. Born in Helensburgh, Scotland, she came to Canada more than 30 years ago and found employment with legal work with various firms in Edmonton and Vegreville, Alta. She came here in 1934.

Red Deer Board Opens 1942 Meets

Executive to Edmonton Bulletin

RED DEER, Jan. 7.—Red Deer public school board held its first 1942 meeting Monday evening. Trustees A. M. Filmer, A. Houston, George M. England, J. E. MacIntosh and F. J. Setters were present with Secretary S. Parr. Principals R. L. Whitney and J. Welsh and Vice-Principal G. H. Dawe.

Mr. Filmer was elected chairman A. Houston, the only other continuing member, has been a trustee for one year and Trustees England, MacIntosh and Setters were newly-elected to the board in December.

The following committees were named: Finance, J. E. MacIntosh and F. J. Setters; property, A. Houston and G. M. England; school management, A. Houston and J. E. MacIntosh with the two principals and the vice-principal. The chairman is an ex-officio member of all committees. S. Parr was appointed secretary-treasurer.

Chief Constable John Spence was appointed school attendance officer.

P. E. Wilson, the chief janitor of the schools, who has been sick since the middle of November, had applied for two months' leave of absence. This was granted. Chairman Filmer reported that during Mr. Wilson's 17 years' service to the schools he had previously scarcely lost a day through illness. A. McKenzie, assistant janitor, will continue the work. John Bulmer was engaged as assistant on December 1 for the two-month period of Mr. Wilson's absence.

An application was received from local military authorities asking for increased accommodation for classes that are using the rink for soldiers-in-training. Volunteers from the Red Deer staffs do the teaching free of charge. The Board decided to give the authorities use of as many classrooms as necessary for two evenings per week.

Russia Morale Is Boosted By Nazis' Defeat

descents on the Crimean cities of Kerch and Feodosia where Russia's spirit and audacity made the Soviet attack irresistible.

Even more important than the psychological effect of Russian gains in the Crimea is even bigger than that of the Rostov and Moscow successes. It demonstrates that the Russian winter was not the only thing responsible for the German setbacks. The climate in the Crimea is gentle compared to other parts of Russia and lies severe than that in many parts of Germany. It is probable that the fall back of the Germans from the gates of Moscow will bring about any Soviet withdrawal that the Soviet's policy of transferring its main industrial establishments from western Russia to points deep in the interior.

In the train journey from Moscow a few days ago I noticed that trainloads of heavy machinery were still moving out of the capital though in greatly reduced numbers. Nor has there been any indication yet that Moscow is ready to invite the diplomatic corps to return from Kuibyshev. However, the trips of important diplomats to Moscow are more frequent and their visits longer.

Soviet newspapers for several weeks have been devoting many columns of space to promotions and decorations of officers and men who distinguished themselves in counter-offensive operations. After each new success the portraits of commanding officers are conspicuously published.

Cartoons almost invariably picture Hitler in the role of a defeated modern Bonaparte wearing a Napoleonic headpiece several sizes too big for him.

THURST FOR REVENGE

This taste of victory and thirst for revenge grows instead of diminishing. This has become a war in which there is very little mercy on either side. In the words of one Soviet commentator:

"The Germans need not count on our mercy. We have learned to conquer. And that knowledge we have bought at a price too dear and terrible to permit us to be merciful toward the enemy. The words of commander-in-chief, that this is a war of extermination', are not a mere war slogan. They are symbolized by that German who lies in the snow with a bayonet through his throat. One dead German and another and another and another—as many dead Germans as each of us and all of us has the strength and life to kill."

Henry H. Horsey, Liberal Senator, Dies In Ontario

KINGSTON, Ont., Jan. 7—(CP)—Senator Henry H. Horsey, 60, Liberal member of the upper chamber since 1928, died in hospital here Tuesday.

A native of Kingston, he was a candidate for the house of commons in 1917, 1921 and 1926, and was summoned to the senate Dec. 6, 1928.

OTTAWA, Jan. 7—(CP)—The death in Kingston of Senator Henry Herbert Horsey reduces the Liberal membership in the senate to 44 and makes the ninth vacancy. There are 43 Conservative members in the upper chamber.

Break Relations

CAIRO, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Egypt decided Tuesday to break off diplomatic relations with Bulgaria and Finland on both of whom Great Britain has declared war. The same decision also has been taken concerning the Vichy French government.

UNUSUAL BANKING IN THESE UNUSUAL TIMES

As Canada's war efforts gain length of stride and speed of step, business in general reflects added activity and increases in volume. As business increases, banking activity also increases. Our service keeps pace with the requirements of our customers, albeit occasionally they may experience slight delays, owing to war-time depletion of our staff. (More than six hundred members of our staff are already in the Empire's forces.)

By experience, increased effort and up-to-date equipment, we endeavour to compensate for reduced numbers, to avoid delays and inconvenience to our customers, and to conduct all banking transactions, however unusual, with everyday efficiency.

New York Rangers Equal Nine-Year Scoring Record

Joe's Cut Goes To Navy Fund

Louis Really Serious Over Coming Bout With Buddy Baer

GREENWOOD LAKE, N.Y., Jan. 7.—(AP)—Joe Louis isn't getting enough out of Friday night's fuss with Buddy Baer to order a helping of fried chicken, but he's training harder and walloping more viciously than he did when it meant $100,000 or more.

If Buddy should wind up his high hard one in Madison Square Garden Friday night and knock Joe's ears off, the Bomber would be out something more than the 40 per cent. which is being turned over to charity. There's the matter of the world heavyweight championship.

"Buddy hit me a honey in Washington last May," he recalled yesterday after belting four sparring partners liberally. "so I ain't takin' any chances of that buppenin' again. When I fell through the ropes after he connected that time, I realize right then I couldn't take any chances if I ever took him on again."

What's more, one learns from Joe's camp followers that he is having lots more fun training for this fight, largely because he's in better shape than ever before.

"I'm glad I can do this for the navy relief, and my country," he explained. "Afterward, I guess I'll be called for the army right quick, but I'll have done this much anyway."

"This much" is no small touch. The fight should draw more than $200,000, of which Joe's entire 40 per cent is being turned over to the navy relief fund, as well as Promoter Mike Jacobs' entire profit and a good piece of Baer's cut.

Up to Tuesday, Joe has flattened four sparmates in his 60 rounds of boxing drills. He shuffles in, throws less wild punches than he used to do, but once he gets his man set up, he lets 'em and usually the lights go out right then.

Rangers-Leafs Battle To A Draw

Lynn Patrick, of the Rangers, is shown behind the Toronto net attempting to pass the puck to a teammate as Lorne Carr (No. 9) and Jack Church (No. 16), both of Toronto, try and block the play. The game ended in a 3 to 3 tie, the first draw battle of the season in Madison Square Garden, and the first tie game played by either team.

Loop Leaders Still Deadlocked

Leaf Midgets Beat E.A.C.; South Side Downs Canadians

Maple Leafs and South Side kept pace in the City Midget Hockey League last night, both turning in wins. The Leafs defeated E.A.C. 3-1, while the South Siders shut out Canadians 3-0.

These two clubs each have three victories and as a result are deadlocked for first place in the loop standings with six points.

In Tuesday night's game at 119 Street rink the Maple Leafes had quite a struggle to down the Clubmen. They took a one goal lead in the first period. Mike Thomas scoring on McPherson's pass.

Thomas again counted in the second session, Finley drawing an assist on the play, but Chapman also netted for the E.A.C. making the score 2-1 for Leafs.

Christian however added a third goal for his team in the final period.

V

In the other midget encounter, D Ellis opened the scoring for the South Side in the first period and F Brennan added the other two in the middle frame.

The Canadians were considerably strengthened by the addition of Doug Johnston on defence, but they were unable to break through for any counters.

Kilburn in the South Side nets turned in a great game.

Overseas Troops Like Their Hockey

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND Jan. 7—(CP)—Hockey is the major sport of the overseas Canadians again this winter and about 75 teams are playing in leagues and eliminations leading to the forces championship which will be decided probably in late February.

Last winter's champions, a Quebec Machine Gun regiment in Corps troops, are favorites in the present series.

The Canadian Army has taken over two rinks for the season and day and night games and practices are held. A year ago only one rink was available.

Eighteen teams are competing in the 1st Division and similar leagues are operating in other formations, including the Royal Canadian Air Force.

The Y.M.C.A. is again handling hockey in the 1st Division, which pioneered Army hockey in England

Y.M.C.A. Starts Boxing Classes

Boxing instruction under Alex Wynnychuk is being featured in the Y.M.C.A. physical activities program for young men. Beginners as well as more experienced boxers will be coached in fundamentals and ring strategy. The Y Boxing Club will send representatives to the forthcoming provincial A.A.U. championships.

Jack Berry, the Y boxing instructor for boys is coaching a squad of 30 youngsters in the manly art, including those who represented the Y.M.C.A. boys' department in the junior A.A.U. finals last year. A number of junior novice entries are expected from this club this year.

New Westminster Ties Norvans 4-4

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. Jan 7—(CP)—Vancouver Norvans put on a third period scoring spree to earn a 4-4 overtime tie with New Westminster Spitfires in a Pacific Coast intermediate amateur hockey league game here last night.

The result left the teams tied at the top of the standings.

Ed Trites with two, Lee Makarsky and Art Forrest scored for New Westminster while Johnny Uraski, Ken Barker, Red Beattie and Norm McQuade counted for Norvans

Resolution Asks Curb On Racing

CHICAGO, Jan. 7—(AP)—Regolution calling upon the legislature to outlaw horse racing in Illinois for the duration of the war was adopted Monday by the Cook County Board of Commissioners.

The resolution, copies of which were sent to Governor Dwight H. Green and members of the legislature, asserted that racing would deter the united effort towards victory, unnecessarily encumber transportation systems, use up manpower and materials, consume funds which might be spent for defense bonds and stamps, and endanger the lives of thousands crowded into small parks.

Canadians Play Clubmen Tonight

Canadians and Edmonton Athletic Club clash in a City Junior Hockey League at 119 street tonight at 8:30 o'clock.

These two teams have only met once before this season and the Clubmen lost out by a 5-4 count. Both clubs, however, are very much in need of the two points at stake in tonight's game and they will no doubt be playing for keeps.

Trochu Curling

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

TROCHU, Jan. 7—The curling season opened with a New Year's knockout, 14 rinks competing. Neil Danforth won out in the finals when he defeated E. Fiala 12-11.

The personnel of the winning rink is as follows: Neil Danforth, Trevor Evans, Tom Lynch, and Don McNeil. E. Fiala's rink included: F. Schmierer, E. Fiala Jr., and R. Cormack.

All Set For Hockey, Basketball

Plans For Inter-Service Sports Program Are Approved

WITH five hockey teams and the same number of basketball units, inter-service competition for Army, Navy and Air Force units stationed here will get underway in the next few days, while a boxing tourney is planned for the near future.

Plans for inter-service competition in hockey and basketball were given final approval at a meeting in the Macdonald hotel last night.

Hockey will be the first sport to get underway. The five teams forming the league are: Garrison, No. 4, I.T.S., Air Force Depot A and B, and the Airport R.C.A.F. Opening game sends Depot A against Airport at 3:00 p.m. Sunday on the Depot rink.

The basketball loop comprises two teams from the Air Force Depot, two from the Garrison and one from the Navy will start on January 14 with two games, the Depot squad playing on their home floor and the Garrison units doing likewise.

Full details of the boxing program have not yet been worked out but it is expected however to take the form of test bouts in each service from which a team will be picked, the teams then meeting in a big tourney in the arena.

For the time being, the Navy will be unable to field teams in the hockey and basketball loops.

Red Wings Fail Stop Gothamites

NEW YORK, Jan. 7—(CP)—New York Rangers last night tied their own nine-year-old record of having scored in 77 consecutive National Hockey League games, and at the same time climbed into a tie for second place by defeating Detroit Red Wings 3-2 before 11,000 fans.

At the same time the Rangers suffered a loss which may prove serious to their hopes of catching the league-leading Boston Bruins. Ott Heller, their durable defencesman, fell heavily and was taken to hospital with an injury tentatively diagnosed as a broken left shoulder bone.

Heller was the only Ranger left on the team of the squad which in January, 1933, was shut out by Goalie John Ross Roach of Detroit to end their run of 77 games with at least a goal a game. There had been plans to have a Heller night but, ironically, they were ditched because of the jinx usually associated with benefit nights.

Wingman Alfie Pike scored the second-period goal which tied up the record that the Rangers will seek to break Jan. 13 in their game with Brooklyn Americans. Before the second period was over Alex Shibicky had given the Rangers a 2-0 lead.

Detroit, after a slow start, netted the puck twice in the third period. Gus Bodnar-Bentz scoring one himself and giving a pass to Joe Carveth for the other. But between these counters was sandwiched a New York goal by young Alan Kuntz that turned out to be the winning marker.

Kuntz' goal was scored during a penalty to Eddie Wares—a penalty Detroit protested so vigorously that Manager Jack Adams walked out on the ice a few steps before he remembered the financial consequence and scrambled back on the bench. Even so, it was understood his sally was sufficient to cost him the automatic fine of $100 imposed in such cases.

The argument was that the Rangers' Lynn Patrick should have drawn a penalty also, for high-sticking Wares whose mouth was cut.

LINEUPS:

NEW YORK—Henry; Coulter, Pratt; Watson, Hextall, Patrick, Subs— Heller, Jusda, N. Colville, M. Colville, Shibicky, Smith, Pike, Kuntz.

DETROIT—Mowers, Orlando, Stewart; Grosso, Wares, Abel. Subs—Jones, Goodfellow, Lacombe, Howe, Brunteau, Giesebrecht, Kilrea, Brown, Carveth.

Referee—Norman Lamport; linesmen—Fred Stevenson, John Wilkenson.

SUMMARY:

First period: Scoring—None. Penalties—Coulter, Lacombe, Kuntz.

Second period: 1—New York, Pike, (Smith, Pratt) 7:22; 2—New York, Shibicky, (Watson, Hextall) 13:45. Penalties—Pratt, Wares, Kuntz, Howe, Lacombe.

Third period: 1—Detroit, Bodnar-Bentz, (Carveth) 2:30; 2—New York, Kuntz, (Henry) 6:15. Penalties—Heller, Wares, Kuntz.

Hialeah Park To Benefit By Influx Western Horses

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 7—(AP)—Florida's racing season has broken no records in its first two weeks, but the arrival of California's big-name horses may provide just the shot-in-the-arm that is needed to pep up the industry in this winter resort.

The migration of refugee thoroughbreds from west coast war precautions will be small in number, but it will contain such names as Mioland, Challedon, Pictor and Porter's Cap.

These great racers will join Hialeah Park's collection of top-rankers, including the 1941 horse of the year, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sabath's three-year-old Alsab, War Relic and Market Wise, in a battle for $800,000 of purse money.

Hialeah opens Jan. 14 and runs until March 7. Tropical Park has been operating since Dec. 25, with its smaller plant and lower purses that attract few of the best class thoroughbreds.

All the big Hialeah stakes are closed. Nominations ended weeks ago for the $50,000 Widener, the $25,000 Flamingo and the $10,000 McLennan and Black Helen handicaps. Six stakes, each for $5,000 added, still are open.

Fortunately the owners of the most-to-rank west coast horses made complimentary nominations for the big events, although they had no intention of entering them. Only Whirlaway is missing from the lists.

Owners Hit Hard By Cancellation Santa Anita Races

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7—(AP)—Gloom settled over Santa Anita Park Monday as cancellation of the race meeting forced more than 4,000 trainers, grooms, exercise boys and track employees to make new plans.

Many horsemen with small stables were stranded. Owners of large ones were unable to obtain cars immediately to ship elsewhere.

Only 150 horses of the 1,400 total had moved out before the meeting was cancelled officially Monday.

The majority of the Eastern-owned stables will remain here until the New York season opens. California owners will turn their horses out on their farms.

Leading jockeys like Basil James, Buddy Hass, Jack Westrope and Johnny Longden will leave for Hialeah. George Woolf plans to stay and manage his refreshment club.

Said Woolf "There's be so many jocks in Florida a fellow won't be able to get enough mounts to keep fit."

Longden and Woolf are former Albertans.

Dempsey Tries Join Army In Order Again Jar Heinies

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—(AP)—A 46-year-old man who once licked eight Germans in three minutes with one awfully tough fist walked into the army recruiting station Tuesday and volunteered as a buck private. His name is Jack Dempsey.

"But I've got to tell you about those Germans first," he said. "It was in the summer of 1923—I was still champ—when I was on a barnstorming tour and landed in Berlin.

I offered $1,000 to anyone who could stay three rounds with me. But the Heinies ganged up on me. First they sent in three small guys, then three fast ones, and finally two more, trying to wear me down. I knocked 'em all down in three minutes."

The former world's heavyweight champion expanded his chest to punctuate the point.

"Been thinking about joining since Pearl Harbor," he said. "Soon as the waiver on my age comes through, they say they'll take me. I don't want a rank. I'll do whatever they tell me to—shoulder a gun, anything. I'd like a crack at the Germans."

But the army didn't take him. Although Dempsey passed his physical examination, Col. John F. Daye, in charge of recruiting in the southern New York area, said that since Dempsey is 46 he could not be enlisted "unless and until congress passes a law raising the age limit from 35 years."

BOSTON WITHSTANDS LAST PERIOD DRIVE

BOSTON, Jan. 7—(AP)—A three-goal scoring burst during the last six minutes of first-period play enabled Boston Bruins to defeat Chicago Black Hawks 3-2 and regain the National Hockey League lead Tuesday night before 10,800 at the Boston garden.

While gaining their first triumph of the season over the Black Hawks, who won one and tied two of the previous games, the Bruins got off to a flying start. They registered all of their tallies, made by Woody Dumart, Roy Conacher and Eddie Wiseman, long before the visitors got rolling.

The Hawks, who also were beaten in their five previous starts, took advantage of Des Smith's second-period penalty to register their first tally. This resulted from a 30-foot shot that Joe Cooper fired through a forest of legs after being fed by Red Hamill, recently traded by the Bruins.

That success aroused the Black Hawks to fighting pitch and they cut loose with a long series of power plays. One of them succeeded during the seventh minute of third-period play, when Bill Thoms scored with a five-footer after taking a short pass from defenceman Johnny Mariucci.

Just before the final bell, Bill Cowley, who collected two assists during the game to boost his points total to 26, raced in from the blue line, after taking a pass from Wiseman, and blasted through goalie Sam Lo Presti. But he was declared offside and the goal was disallowed.

Due to the injury of Milt Schmidt, the Kraut line centre, Busher Jackson, acquired from Brooklyn Americans Sunday, was pressed into service, despite the fact that he had been out of action since last season because of salary differences with Manager Red Dutton.

The Bruins suffered another casualty just before time expired, for defenceman Jack Crawford was forced to retire with a gashed left foot.

Pete Dewar Adds Necessary Punch

TRAIL, B.C., Jan. 7—(CP)—Trail Smoke Eaters and Kimberley Dynamiters have wound up their first A.B.C. Senior Amateur Hockey League four-game all British Columbia series on even terms.

The Smokies came from behind with a third period rally to defeat Dynamiters 5-3 here last night after dropping two games to Kimberley and coming out on top in the third.

Peter Dewar, Trail defenceman, who turned centreman for last night's encounter, can claim most of the credit for the win. He slammed in three of the Smokies' counters in their big third period.

Neither team found the range until the second period when Mike Buckna opened the scoring for Trail on a pass from Ab Cronie at the four-minute mark.

Sully Sullivan replied 10 minutes later on a solo effort to tie the score and L. Kavanagh sent Dynamiters into a 2-1 lead three minutes before the end of the frame.

Dewar started the Trail rally three minutes after the final period opened, going down the ice with Maurice Duffy and Buckna and sinking a shot that tied the score at 2-2.

Art Stanton beat Goalie Jakie Nash in the Kimberley net four minutes later when his shot went in off Nash's skate.

Dewar then scored twice in succession to give Smokies a comfortable margin. He was assisted by Duffy in the first of these counters while both Duffy and Cronie figured in the play for the other.

Dynamiters tried hard to cut down the Trail advantage but their efforts failed to click and Goalie Duke Scodellaro had no trouble in keeping his net clear.

It was not until the last 10 seconds of play that the Kimberley team again found the Trail net. Curly Hunt doing the scoring on a pass from Gordie Wilson.

LINEUPS:

TRAIL—Scodellaro; Wade, Bobicky; Dewar, Christensen, Bentley Subs—Cronie, Buckna, Duffy, Roberts, Stanton, Kyoung.

KIMBERLEY — Nash; Zobrosky, Swaney; Calles, Sullivan, Redisky Subs—Johnson, Sorenson, Hunt, Wilson, Kavanagh, Holditch.

Officials—Wheatley and Brennan.

SUMMARY:

First period: No score. Penalties—Swaney, Calles.

Second period: 1—Trail, Buckna, (Cronie) 4:06; 2—Kimberley, Sullivan (Kavanagh) 7:48; 3—Trail, Dewar (Duffy, Cronie) 14:26; 4—Trail, Dewar (Duffy, Cronie) 15:44; 5—Kimberley, Hunt (Wilson), 19:50. Penalties—Calles, Redisky.

Highlands Beats Eastwood By 5-4

Highlands won 5-4 against Eastwood on the latter's home ice in a Community League Juvenile game on Tuesday night.

Eastwood counted three times in the first period, the goalgetters being Smart, Plumley and Faers. H. Jamieson, however, came back with three for Highlands in the second.

In the last period E. Griffin netted for Eastwood, but Hay's two goals won the game for Highlands.

Lineups:

Eastwood—Tough, McNally, Faers, Belland, Plumley, Smart, Griffin, McCoy, Brushi.

Highlands—Zerp, Heron, Devlin, Kindress, Meyers, Jamieson, McNicholl, Hay Radina, Sinclair.

Referee—Bill Arnett.

Calder—J. Foxall, Norm. Trottier, V. Corriveau, Babe Boyko, Bun Goone, John Chimko, M. McNeill, L. Chust, E. Pollet, O. Parratt, W. Brawn.

Referee—Joe McCallum.

The man who LOST THE WAR

Above our heads, in the bright Canadian sunshine, the Stukas drone. Down our fair streets come German tanks. Squads of square-helmeted soldiers strut about.

● Yes, this war can be lost—it can't be won without a supreme effort. If we lose, here is the man to blame:

● He is not a Quisling, or a fifth columnist; just a patriotic Canadian who is now quite certain that everything will come out alright.

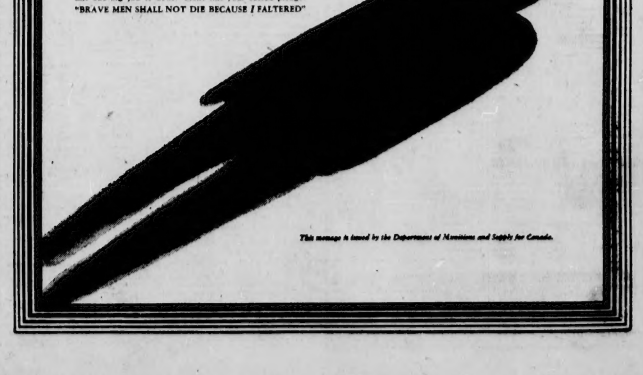

● He cherishes those ideals we hold most dear. He is proud to live in a free country, pleased with the high standard of living we enjoy. But he is so satisfied with the way things are going that he says, "Let George do it!"

● His heart goes out to conquered peoples, to the women and children whose cities have been bombed. He has no fear that next year a bomb might rip his home in pieces. He is sure everything will come out alright.

● You couldn't call him selfish. He pays his taxes, buys War Savings Certificates. But he just can't believe that if we don't gain the upper hand quickly "George" might not be able to do it after all.

Could this man be you?

Your country appeals to you to forget self, and comfort, and money, and enjoyment and to pitch in and do your part till this one big job is done. Make this your sacred pledge: "BRAVE MEN SHALL NOT DIE BECAUSE I FALTERED"

This message is issued by the Department of Munitions and Supply for Canada.

Stock Producer Benefits From British Market

OTTAWA, Jan. 7—(CP)—Livestock producers, as opposed to grain farmers, have benefited most substantially from improved prices due to overseas demand for Canadian farm products, bureau of statistics studies showed Tuesday night.

A record of wholesale prices for farm products, on the base 1926 prices equal 100, showed that in August, 1940, the field products index stood at 50.4 and in October, 1941, had risen to 57.9. In the same period, the animal products prices index rose from 83.3 to 101.1.

INDEX FIGURES

Index figures for the first 10 months of 1941 gave this picture of the movement of prices for the field products farmer and the livestock producers:

	Field Products	Animal Products
Jan.	53.6	90
Feb.	54.4	91.6
March	55.06	91.8
April	55.9	92.2
May	55.5	93.3
June	57.1	94.3
Juyl	57.1	96.1
August	56.7	97.9
Sept.	57.6	99.6
Oct.	57.9	101.1

The wheat surplus remains a factor in holding back rises in the field products prices' index, and the bureau officials said that if wheat had been left out of the picture the index would reflect considerably higher prices for field products.

HIGHER LEVEL

When the prices of all farm products were considered, the bureau figures showed farm income climbing back toward levels existing in the 1920's.

With the base of 100 established in 1926, the farm products index rose two points in the following year and then began a decline which brought it to a low of 48.4 in 1932. Thereafter the index fluctuated up and down above that figure, standing at 64.3 in 1939 and 67.1 in 1940. From October, 1940, to October, 1941, the index for farm products prices rose 9.5 points to 74.1.

Record Budget Of 56 Billions Given Congress

nearly double Germany's annual war expenditures. It called, the president said, for a step-up in the rate of war spending from the current $2,000,000,000 a month to $5,000,000,000 a month.

To the United States armed forces and their allies, the president promised the budget meant "A crushing superiority of equipment."

To the public he said it meant heavy new taxes because "a fair distribution of the war burden is necessary for national unity."

It also meant, he declared, that the people would have to do without "many conveniences and luxuries" so that the nation may "shift labor, materials and facilities from the production of civilian articles to the production of weapons and other war supplies."

OTHER SPENDING

Technically, the budget concerned only money to be paid out of the treasury. However, in setting up the $56,000,000,000 war program, the President said that beside an estimated $52,786,186,000 out of the treasury, he believed an additional $3,000,000,000 would be spent out of the purses of the reconstruction finance corporation and other non-budgetary agencies for war purposes.

The treasury budget called for total expenditures of $59,027,992,300 in the fiscal year beginning next July 1. This included the huge war item plus $1,750,000,000 for interest on the public debt, and reduced allotments for work relief, farm aid, governmental running expenses and other non-military costs.

To pay for this, the President estimated there would be $16,487,200,000 of taxes from existing tax laws, asked $7,000,000,000 of new general taxes (not counting increased social security taxes, which do not count as revenues), and proposed borrowing of $35,540,792,000 from social security and other government trust funds and from the public.

PASSES OLD WAR PEAK

In the current fiscal year, he figured, treasury expenses would total $30,675,796,162, including $23,996,525,400 for defence, and calculated taxes would yield $11,943,993,000, leaving a deficit of $18,731,802,162 to be covered by borrowing.

This meant that the first Great War spending peak of $18,522,000,000 will be passed this fiscal year and approximately tripled next year.

The president asked congress for an initial appropriation of $13,600,000,000 to get the huge new war program under way, and said he would ask for additional large amounts as the nation moved toward maximum war production.

In his tax program, the president asked for approximately $2,000,000,000 of added social security taxes plus $7,000,000,000 of income, excess profits, estate and gift, and excise taxes. He approved of almost any kind of new taxes except a general sales tax—and he indicated that even that type of levy later might become necessary on a temporary basis.

PREVENT INFLATION

Saying that taxes were important not only to finance the war but also prevent inflation, he asserted, "Any tax is better than an uncontrolled price rise."

The president, however, offered a little bright news to the general public, too.

He said the nation's productive resources were enough in spite of diversions to war output to enable the people "to maintain a standard of living more than adequate to support the health and productivity of our people . . . I do not at present propose general consumer ration cards."

While automobile tires are already rationed, he explained, "there are not as yet scarcities in the necessities of life which make such a step (general rationing) imperative."

Non-military agencies of the government, he said, will be cut more than $1,000,000,000 in their next year's budgets. He predicted work relief costs would go down from $942,430,000 this fiscal year to $480,075,000 next year; that farm aid would decline from $1,117,082,000 to $854,050,000 and cited other savings on administrtive expenses on other agencies and public works.

Roads not needed for defence, postoffices, and other public works considered non-essential would get no money. He said, unless they were already under construction. He said he hoped Congress would skip its usual blanket road-building grants to states.

U.S. Promise Will 'Ring Around World' Newspaper Says

NEW YORK, Jan. 7—(CP)—The New York Times said editorially today that President Roosevelt's promise the United States flag will be carried into battle on every front will ring around the world."

"The great democracy of the United States has taken its place in the ranks of a still greater union and pledged itself to total victory," the paper added.

The Herald Tribune said of the President's address:

"Here, at last, is the summons to the free, the summons to the total effort which will win this war and win the peace and safeguard the world of liberty and security to be built upon it."

Air Force Over 100,000 Strong Power Reveals

OTTAWA, Jan. 7—(CP)—Air Minister Power said Tuesday night the total strength of the Royal Canadian Air Force at home and overseas now has passed the 100,000-mark and that it is fully expected the present objective of 25 R.C.A.F. squadrons overseas will be realized "before very long."

In addition to the more than 100,000 enlisted men, the air force employs about 12,000 civilians.

At the end of the year, Major Power said in his statement, 21 R.C.A.F. squadrons had been organized overseas—at least 16 of them fully operational. The others were rapidly completing their operation training.

Second anniversary of signing of the agreement for the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan was marked last month.

RAPID OUTPUT

"For reasons of security, Mr. Power could not disclose the percentage of the total personnel who are aircrew nor could he reveal the numbers overseas," the statement said, "but he did reiterate that, with the B.C.A.T.P. in full operation months ahead of the original schedule, trained aircrews are being poured out at an ever-increasing rate.

"The air minister expressed confidence the plan would soon be producing pilots, observers and wireless air-gunners far in excess of the peak numbers originally scheduled."

(No figures have been made public on the number of graduates to be turned out annually under the original schedule but the figure of 30,000 a year has been considered a fair estimate.)

Krysko and another second-hand store dealer, Mike Bahry, had been dealing with the delinquent youth for several weeks, police testified. Bahry was fined $40 and costs.

Oil Report Is Due This Week Tanner States

The petroleum and natural gas conservation board will receive the report of Dr. G. G. Brown, University of Michigan geologist who surveyed the Turner Valley field last fall, this week, it was stated Wednesday by Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines.

Dr. Brown's survey was to determine whether production from the Turner Valley field could be increased to meet the wartime needs for gasoline and oil or whether it would be necessary in the interests of preserving the field to limit the allowable production.

J. J. Frawley, K.C., acting chairman of the Conservation Board, recently said the report was expected early in January.

Badly Frozen Boy Dies In Hospital

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Jan. 7—(CP) — Alvin Court, 12-year-old semi-invalid son of Mr. and Mrs. George Court, Jr., of nearby Raymond, who was found Monday beside his dead mother with his legs badly frozen, died in hospital here Tuesday.

The couple was found in their home sometime after Mrs. Court suffered a heart seizure while trying to light a fire in the kitchen stove.

There will be no inquest.

When found by an older son the 12-year-old invalid boy was in bed and rushed to hospital here where all efforts were made to save his life.

The pair had lived alone in the house for several years and Mrs. Court was last seen alive by the elder son who visited them Friday. It was not known when she became ill.

Mrs. Court told the visiting son when he delivered a load of coal to the residence that everything was "fine". He returned Monday to find her dead.

Appeal will be taken to the supreme court of Canada by Daniel Brent, Edmonton, against the dismissal by Alberta's appeal court of his appeal against supreme court jury conviction and seven-year penitentiary term imposed on him by Mr. Justice G. B. O'Connor on a charge of retaining possession of stolen property. Brent was found guilty of retaining possession of a quantity of jewelry stolen from the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association, but was found not guilty on a charge of breaking and entering the association's premises.

Mrs. A. Dempsey Passes In East

Following a short illness, Mrs. Alexander Dempsey of Stratford, Ont., formerly of Edmonton, died in eastern Canada on Tuesday morning, it was learned here Wednesday. She was 56 years old.

Mrs. Dempsey was the wife of Mr. Alexander Dempsey, who was western supervisor of Electrolux (Canada) Ltd., in Edmonton, and who is affiliated with the firm in eastern Canada. She was the former Miss Eva Herring. Also surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Richard Fisher of Toronto, who is well-known throughout Canada as Lotta Dempsey, writer, and features broadcaster for the CBC, and former women's editor of the Edmonton Bulletin; a grandson, Donald Duncan Fisher; an adopted son, Philip, who is serving overseas with the R.C.A.F., and a sister, Mrs. Lotta Faskin of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Dempsey, who was born in southern British Columbia, lived with her family in Edmonton for many years, at 10808 124 street. With her husband, she left four years ago for Stratford, Ont.

Funeral services will be held at Stratford at 2 p.m. on Thursday.

With members of his party expressing satisfaction with progress of British Commonwealth Air Training Plan, following intensive inspection of units scattered all the way from Ottawa to Edmonton, Air Vice-Marshal G. W. Croil, A.F.C., inspector general of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan and staff officers are in the city Wednesday.

Air Vice-Marshal Croil, accompanied by his personal staff officer, Flt. Lt. G. R. Dymond, arrived in the city by train at about 4 p.m. Tuesday. He was met on arrival here by other members of the inspection party who had previously arrived in the city by plane.

These included Air Commodore A. T. N. Cowley, A.D.C., Air Officer commanding No. 4 Training Command, with headquarters in Calgary, Group Capt. D. D. Grein, D.F.C., A.F.C., senior air staff officer; Wing Cmdr. S. G. Cowan, senior equipment officer; Squadron Leader R. D. Byers, staff officer for training and Flt. Lt. A. T. Mason, staff officer to the air officer commanding.

The air vice-marshal went almost immediately with members of his staff to No. 2 Air Observers School, where the party was conducted on a brief preliminary inspection of the school by Capt. W. R. May, O.B.E. D.F.C., manager of the establishment.

FOUR-DAY STAY

The inspection will continue for four days. In addition to inspecting other units in Edmonton, including No. 16 Elementary Flying Training School and No. 4 Initial Training school at the Normal school building, there will also be an inspection of No. 3 Manning depot at the exhibition grounds and the recruiting station in the Provincial Building.

There will also be sidetrips, by plane to other units in the No. 4 Training Command, which takes in North Battleford and Penhold.

Asked if there seems to be a likelihood of discontinuance of training in Canada for recruits from Australia and New Zealand in view of the serious situation in the Pacific, officers in the inspection party stated:

"That is a matter of the policy of a government. We have no comment to offer."

A recent dispatch from Australia stated the government was considering keeping all airmen at home for the defence of Australia.

"Everything is just fine," the inspecting officers stated, when asked about the progress of the Commonwealth Training Plan.

Air-Vice Marshal Croil and other members of the inspection party are at the Macdonald.

THE QUESTION

The New Year has but passed its first week in the annals of history. Thus, the following question might not be deemed too out-dated: What do you think would make good New Year's resolutions for Canada, as a Dominion, in the coming year?

THE ANSWERS

BARBARA BERRY, waitress: To get every young man of military age in Canada at the present time into a uniform, and to use him not only for the army, but for any branch of the service where his strength and desire for freedom may be utilized.

JACK CAMPBELL, clerk: To strengthen the nation's war effort in every possible way. The country has money—save it by curtailing unnecessary expense.

GEORGE ROBERTSON, salesman: To increase production of all the vital tools for war that the fighting man needs to become a 100 per cent defence and offence unit. Organize the resources of the country until every possible means of preparing guns and ammunition is operating to its fullest extent.

Civic Employees Plan Appearance To Lay Case Before City Aldermen

Request of civic employees for payment of a cost of living bonus will be considered at a special meeting of the Edmonton city council to be held Wednesday evening at 8 p.m. City council will consider also a report from the city commissioners on the possibility of calling off the race meetings for this summer and fall.

I Saw Today

HARRY RAYTER

superintending operations at the Mackenzie Air Service assembly plant;

AND

Nell MacLean guiding visitors to the Legislative buildings; Grace Marshall and Ethel Code rushing through a quick cup of tea; Tommy Jackson making a typewriter purr in the office of the clerk of the legislative assembly; Morris Flowers attending to telephone installations; Marjorie Burgess greeting a customer in a downtown store; Jack Block discussing business over a cup of coffee; Buster Gatherecole getting a coffee in a hamburger spot.

Request for the opportunity to appear before city council was made by the civic employees through officials of the Edmonton Civic Employees' Federation, following the refusal of a compromise offer from the city commissioners to their request that a cost of living bonus based on the 15 point living cost increase be paid all civic employees earning $3,000 or less.

The city commissioners offered to recommend to city council that a cost of living bonus of $2 weekly be paid to all married employees and single employees with dependents earning $2,100 or less, and that a $1 weekly bonus be paid to unmarried employees.

In suggesting the foregoing offer the city commissioners, in their report to council, stated they had taken into consideration a preliminary survey they had made regarding the financial outlook for 1942. They assert that, while there has been an increase in the assessment, and it is expected there will be a decrease in relief charges, these are offset by the absorption by the city at large of $43,145, representing the annual debenture charges on certain local improvements which expired in 1941, and also the exemption of taxes on the home property of enlisted men which is expected to reach $35,000 during the present year.

BONUS REQUESTED

The civic employees request a cost of living bonus of $3.75 weekly with a $3,000 ceiling. This, if granted, would amount to $244,500, including the library board, but exclusive of the school, hospital and exhibition boards. The granting of the bonuses suggested by the commissioners would entail a total expense in the current year of approximately $140,000, covering the civic employees as well as the employees of the hospital and library boards, but does not include the school boards. Inclusion of the latter boards would cost an additional $30,000.

Business Leaps To New Peak At Post Office

An all time record was achieved when money orders totalling $6,086,378.70 were cashed through Edmonton's post office during 1941 compared with the previous peak of $5,581,115.88 during the 1940 calendar year, an increase of $505,262.82, according to a statement released Wednesday by a post office official.

A record was established also when postal notes amounting to $353,130.25 were cashed during 1941, compared with $306,779.20 in 1940, an increase of $44,281.05.

Post office officials stated Wednesday that practically all of the $6,500,000 worth of money orders and postal notes cashed during 1941 represented the clearing of payments made for mail order business in the city.

STAMP SALES MOUNT

Stamp sales, second and third class mail, and cash register revenue during 1941 amounted to $767,627.70 compared with $711,918.77 in 1940, an increase of $53,857.12.

Revenue from the rental of post office boxes in 1941 amounted to $1,551.81 compared with $1,769.48 in 1940.

During 1941 money orders valued at $546,280.37 were sold compared to $509,241.55 in 1940, an increase of $37,038.82. Postal notes sold during 1941 amounted to $46,006.16 compared with $41,540.37.

ONE BRANCH DROPS

In only one branch of post office activity was 1941 less than in 1940. This was in the amount of third class mail handled. In 1940 revenue from this source was $5,729.33 compared with $4,945.16 in 1941.

Postal officials stated that in 1940 more than $1,000 additional revenue accrued to post office through the March federal and provincial elections. The actual receipts for March 1940 for third class mail was $1,031.66 compared with $420 in March 1941.

Winter Road Is Being Prepared

A winter road linking northern air bases as far north as Fort Nelson, is now in the course of construction and will be put in operation as soon as weather conditions permit, it was learned from information received from Ottawa, Wednesday.

Kellers are at present working, and as soon as rivers have frozen sufficiently to bear tractor traffic, the services will be extended, possibly beyond Fort Nelson. Last year material used in construction of the airport at Fort Nelson was brought there by tractor over the winter route.

Meanwhile there is keen speculation here as to whether the joint U.S.-Canada defence board will move soon to select the "inland route" for a projected U.S. highway to Alaska.

It is understood that a Washington commission favors this route but is merely awaiting action by the joint defence board.

Recruits Sought Engineers' Unit

Seeking recruits for his unit, Lt.-Col. Philip Debney, M.M., C.B.E., 43rd Canadian Divisional Engineers, visited the basic training centre at Camrose Tuesday, where he interviewed a number of men.

Lt.-Col. Debney, who was accompanied by Lt.-Col. E. Brown, M.M., R.D., area commandant, was well satisfied with the prospects of securing a number of good men for active service.

Lt.-Col. Debney is returning Wednesday to eastern Canada.

Getting Around

with Jack DeLong

CANADIANS and their American cousins had better brace themselves for the first big economic shock of this total war. It will arrive when the manufacture of passenger automobiles comes to a halt in a few months.

The internal combustion engine, plus bountiful petroleum resources, plus Henry Ford and the straight line assembly belt, made North America the motorists' paradise of the world. There are more privately-owned pleasure cars rolling along the highways and byways of this continent than in all of the rest of the world combined.

But the exigencies of total war have collided head-on with a way of economic life of the past. In the irreversible march toward total victory, North America is ruthlessly casting aside all that does not conform to the blueprints of victory. Instead of the sleek, streamlined beauties of the highways that have poured from the assembly lines of the American nations in the last quarter century come 185,000 planes and 120,000 tanks.

The dislocation is going to be pretty sharp for a while, but we'll get used to it. Perhaps the governments of Canada and the United States are overlooking a good psychological cushion. Why not let

Trustees Grant Use Of School Hall To Church

Sympathetic consideration was given by the Edmonton Public School Board to a request from the church board of Metropolitan United Church, on Tuesday evening, for the use of the assembly hall of Strathcona High School, during the month of January.

Metropolitan United Church was destroyed by fire on the morning of January 1, and the congregation sought use of the assembly hall for Sunday services. The request was approved by the board, at a meeting in the school board rooms, Tuesday night, subject to financial arrangements being completed between the church board, and H. G. Turner, secretary of the school board, and Ross S. Sheppard, superintendent of schools.

It is the intention of the church board to hold morning and evening services in the assembly hall with Sunday school at 12:15 p.m., and the young people's union following the evening service.

Request of the Edmonton Teachers' Association that interest earned by the accumulated salary be paid into the Teachers' Donations Fund, was refused by the board, on recommendation of the financial committee of the board. Grounds on which the request was declined were that, "the School Act provides for alternate methods of payment of teachers' salaries, and no provision is made for the payment of

Addresses Meet

J. Russell Love, former cabinet minister in the U. F. A. government, who was speaker at the weekly meeting of the Workers' Educational Association at the North Side library's lecture room Tuesday night. Mr. Love spoke on "Co-operatives—Farm and Theory" and dealt with the various fields of the movement and the value of co-operatives to the farming industry. Next in the series of W. E. A. studies will be held Tuesday, Jan. 13, when "Mercantile Co-operatives" will be the topic of discussion.

City Man Arrested On Charge Of Impersonating A Police Officer

Tried To Get Possession Of Auto

Arrested Wednesday by Det. Sgt. Bert Petheram and Det. M. Munro, of the city police force, Peter Turlock of Edmonton, aged about 35, was charged with impersonating a police officer when he appeared before Magistrate A. L. Miller, K.C., in city police court.

Turlock, who was taken into custody on the complaint of A. Strauss, of Bruderheim, Alta., pleaded not guilty to the charge and was remanded to Jan. 14 for trial.

Strauss reported to police that he was sitting in his car in front of a Jasper Avenue cafe early Tuesday morning, when an unidentified man approached and boldly claiming to be a police officer, demanded possession of the vehicle. He was accompanied. Strauss said, by another man in a car which Strauss was parked directly behind his own car.

On approaching Strauss' car, the stranger first demanded to know where the front license plate was. An examination revealed that it was missing. It was then that the stranger declared he was a police officer and demanded that Strauss get from behind the wheel of the car."

Strauss then demanded that the alleged policeman produce his badge or some identification of authority. The masquerader refused to do so and when he still insisted in taking charge of the car, Strauss climbed to the street and decided to resist forcibly.

Apparently taking fright the stranger then fled, and leaping into the coupe driven by his companion, sped off into the night.

Previous to the arrest of Turlock, Strauss returned to Bruderheim. Det. Insp. Charles Leslie stated, however, that he was prepared to return to the city for the hearing of the charge against Turlock on Jan. 14.

Victim of meningitis, two-year-old Leroy Michael Gilkyson died in a city hospital shortly after being rushed from Grande Prairie in a Yukon-Southern Air Transport plane Monday. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Gilkyson of La-Glace, accompanied their stricken son to the city.

Henpecked Pa Charges Wife With Assault

All "henpecked" husbands take immediate note.

Edmonton police officers were surprised, to put it mildly, when late Tuesday afternoon a disgruntled husband stalked into police headquarters and demanded that his wife be arrested for assault.

"She beats me about the head and face," he complained, "and I'm afraid that she might do some serious injury to members of the family, or even herself."

Police issued a warrant for the arrest of the "alleged offender" and the whole matter will be aired before Magistrate A. L. Miller, K.C., in city police court.

Fighting Men Rush To Join Active Army

January seems likely to establish a new high for recruiting at No. 13A district depot. There were 30 men sent to medical boards at the depot Tuesday and at an early hour Wednesday there were 25 more in line at the recruiting office at the Prince of Wales armory.

Lt. Col. A. H. Elliott, officer commanding, is elated over this new and enthusiastic response to the call to duty from the youth of Edmonton and district.

For the last several months most of the recruits have come in answer to calls for 1,000 tradesmen. Now there seems to be a swing back to the old-fashioned "fighting men."

"The fellows joining up in the latest rush are just fighting men for the most part," Lt. Col. Elliott stated.

Recruits are being taken on the strength of the general army for the most part, but men are also joining up with the two special units of the Edmonton garrison, the 96th Anti-Tank Battery, R.C.A., and the No. 1 Base Ordnance Corps. The latter unit requires 1,600 men all told.

Recruits must be men between 18 and 45 in "A" or "B" medical category.

300 Ukrainians Fete Yuletide Tradition

More than 300 Ukrainian citizens gathered at the Ukrainian National hall, 96 street and 106 avenue, to enjoy a traditional Christmas Eve repast and celebrate the orthodox version of the Yuletide.

Guests of honor were 30 Ukrainian boys, 30 of whom are members of the 2nd Battalion, Edmonton Regiment, (R)C.A. and 30 members of the R.C.A.F., and General Zukievich, Ukrainian hero of the First Great War, and now stationed in Toronto.

The affair was sponsored jointly by the Ukrainian War Veterans' Association of Canada and the Ukrainian National Federation.

Prior to sitting down to the dinner the 50 guests were inspected by General Zukievich with all the pomp and ceremony that is attached to such inspections. The general spoke briefly but enthusiastically to the soldiers following the review.

The post-dinner program was featured by the singing of Christmas carols by the whole assembly.

CANADA GIVES FREEDOM

Michael Luchkovich, former M.P. for Vegreville riding, spoke briefly, reviewing the reasons for settlement of people from the Ukraine in Canada and stating that Canada did not disappoint them in their search for freedom and opportunity. He spoke of the many achievements in cultural and professional

Edmonton Provincial Liberal Association Will Elect Officers

Annual meeting of the Edmonton Provincial Liberal association will be held in the I.O.O.F. hall, 103 street, at 8 p.m. Friday, executive officials of the organization stated Wednesday. J. Boyd McBride, K.C., general vice-president of the association and acting president in place of Peter Miller, who resigned recently due to ill health, will preside.

Election of officers of the organization will be one of the main items of business. Besides the office of president, other positions to be filled are those of general vice-president; vice-presidents representing east, west and south Edmonton; secretary and treasurer.

An executive committee of 75, made up of 25 members from each of the three city divisions also will be appointed.

CENTRAL EXECUTIVE

The present central executive consists of J. Boyd McBride, K.C., general vice-president and acting president; A. J. McCormack, South Side vice-president; James Morrison, West End vice-president; Miss Blanche Webb, East End vice-president; Charles H. Grant, K.C., secretary; and Patrick Dunn, treasurer.

The association for several years has adopted the rotation system of selecting its president. Annually the president is chosen from a different division of the city. Last year Mr. Miller was elected on behalf of the South Side.

If the meeting decides to continue that policy the president for 1942 is due to be elected on behalf of the west end.

Some of the names most prominently mentioned as candidates for the presidency are J. Boyd McBride, K.C., Neil D. Maclean, K.C., James Morrison, Len Bell and Nelles V. Buchanan, K.C.

Direct action to preserve the identity of the Liberal party in the province is expected to be a guiding influence in selection of the new officers.

Another interesting item of business expected to be brought up for discussion during the meeting is the question of reviving Liberal study groups, similar to the types that functioned for four years under the leadership of Edward C. Fisher, former president of the association.

A-R-O-U-N-D THE TOWN

A decree nisi of divorce was granted in supreme court Wednesday by Mr. Justice G. B. O'Connor to Sam Callihoo from Elsie Callihoo.

Monthly meeting of the Alberta Hail Board was held Monday and Tuesday in the Legislative Buildings, under chairmanship of R. Henig. On Tuesday afternoon Hon. Nelson Low, provincial treasurer, discussed proposed revisions of the regulations regarding hail insurance, with the Board.

Seth Marshall, Duluth, Minn., president and owner of Marshall-Wells Ltd., arrived in the city Wednesday morning by Trans-Canada plane, to pay a visit to the local branch of his firm. He will be here for the day only, and will confer with J. F. McMullen, general manager of the Marshall-Wells Alberta, Co., Ltd. here.

Observing that the premises of the Merrick Lunch Shop, 10619 Jasper avenue, were filled with smoke and fearing that the building might be on fire, Const. E. Frudd, of the city police, kicked in the rear door of the store at 4:40 a.m. Wednesday and investigated. He discovered that a pail of water, apparently accidently left on the stove, had boiled dry and that a rag in the bottom was smoldering.

C. Traunweiser, Calgary, president of the Alberta Hotelmen's Association, and W. C. Kehoe, secretary of the association, attended the city Wednesday morning on association business. They are registered at the Macdonald, and will interview Claude Finlay, its manager, during the day.

City tax prepayments to date soared to $102,527.89 with City Assessor Thomas Walker reporting that $52,780.80 had been received on Tuesday. Large prepayments made Tuesday include the Imperial Bank of Canada, $7,500; Canadian Bank of Commerce, $14,800; and the Western Trust Co. Ltd., $5,000. Deadline for prepayment of taxes is January 15 Interest at four per cent is paid by the city on prepayments.

Two Edmonton men are listed in a casualty list issued by the R. C. A. F. Wednesday. Sgt. Arthur Harry Egg, husband of Mrs. A. H. Figg of 9117 84 avenue, is listed as "now presumed dead." He was formerly reported missing. Pte. Henry Oswald Nichol, whose wife lives at 11635 87 street, has died from natural causes on active service, the list states.

Two building permits were issued Wednesday by the city architect's office. A $1,400 permit for alterations to a dwelling was issued to Peter Husar, 12841 122 street, and to St. Andrew's church, 11113 St. Albert Trail, for renovation and repairs costing $1,000 made necessary by a recent fire.

Directs Meeting

J. Boyd McBride, K.C., general vice-president of the Edmonton Provincial Liberal Association and acting president, who will preside at the annual convention of the association in the I. O. O. F. hall, 103 street, on Friday night.

Speaker Lauds Work Of Naval Units In War

Carrying on in typical old soldier style, featured by martial music, military orders and uniform regularity of business, the 5 meeting of the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Corps Association in the Masonic Temple Tuesday night dedicated itself to the glorification and extolling of the work of Canada's active navy, of the naval reserve and the merchant marine.

Attending in a non-official capacity were officers and men of the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve barracks here, in addition to men in uniform from other branches of Empire military service. Lt.-Col. F. A. Stewart Dunn, V.D., A.D.C., president of the Corps Association, occupied the chair. More than 500 members, old soldiers and nursing sisters, were in attendance.

"SILENT SERVICE"

Speaker for the evening was Wireless Operator H. Drummond of the British merchant marine, a game warden from the rolling moors of Scotland, who in this present war has already sailed the Atlantic eight times on convoy and transport duty.

Introduced by Norman Campbell, Corps executive officer, Mr. Drummond spoke of the trials, and the joys of Britain's "silent service" in war time. His address was preceded by a sing-song of navy airs led by R. E. "Buster" Browne.

"The Battle of the Atlantic is being watched with deepest concern by the people of the beleagured British Isles," Mr. Drummond said in his rich Scots dialect. "On the battle depends the ultimate outcome of the international conflict."

Dorothy Dix Says:

A correspondent asks: Which loves the more, man or woman? Don't be silly, Woman, of course. Now and then there is a man who is a great lover, who is capable of a sustained affection that lasts through 30 or 40 years of matrimony and who spends the balance of his life in nursing a broken heart if anything untoward happens to the object of his devotions. But practically all women are born with a gift for loving that amounts to positive genius. For it not only enables them to twine their affections about almost any member of the opposite sex, but to love the unlovable and to grieve for the husbands who have mistreated them when they die.

Dorothy Dix

Whether at the time of marriage the bridegroom is more romantically in love with the bride than he is with him does not matter. The thing that counts is the endurance of love, its ability to survive the disillusions of matrimony and bloom like a green oasis in the arid desert of household bills, petty economies, sickness and nerves and crying babies, and finding out that the party of the other part is no angel or romantic hero, but a very ordinary and human man or woman.

Woman's love is strong enough to do this in millions of cases. Man's love seldom is.

That women recognize that their love is stronger and more enduring than men's is proved by the fact that wives work themselves nearly to death trying to retain their husbands' love.

Daily we see the piteous spectacle of middle-aged women starving themselves in order to attain a string-bean figure and martyrizing themselves by affecting sprightliness and youthfulness in order to try to keep their middle-aged husbands in love with them. But you never see a fat, bald-headed man of 50 cutting down on his food or putting himself to any trouble to try to look young and gay to keep his wife in love with him.

Then look at what a woman will do for love. She will get up and follow a man to the ends of the earth; she will forsake home and friends and kindred; she will endure poverty and want and hardships, and ask nothing in return but just a little affection. But do you know any man who would be willing to do these things for a woman? No, I don't either.

Taking them by and large, it is always women who love more than men. It is their blessing and their curse.

What To Do

The touch of color given by flowers adds a great deal to the cheerfulness of your home. Even the present-day artificial flowers can be arranged and placed to look like real ones.

A formal bouquet in a beautiful vase placed on a hall table lends elegance to your home. If your furnishings are of the chintz and maple variety, an old-fashioned bouquet of riotous color gives a "homey" touch to the room. There are various very colorful real flowers that are treated in a manner that will enable you to keep them all Winter.

When you entertain, decorate your table with low centerpieces of colorful flowers. Spend time and thought in their arrangement—they will reapy you by cheering up an otherwise dull room.

One of the most buoyant personalities of the screen is Joan Blondell. Her normal weight—120 pounds for five feet four—is the foundation for vitality plus. Her measurements are all right, too: Bust, 33 inches; waist, 26 inches; hips, 37 inches.

Your Figure, Madame!

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Normal weight is fundamental to health. If you are too fat or too thin you are not in your best form. But normal weight for you is strictly an individual matter. It depends on your bones.

Some people are tall with small bones, others tall with large bones; and some are short with small bones, others with big bones. Come to think of it, you realize that people may be the same height, but with different bony structures they couldn't weigh the same. The ideal weight for the short person with a heavy frame might approximate that of the tall person with the slight frame.

That explains why you can't always go by the so-called standard weight charts. Framework makes such a difference in the normal weight allowance that the women of five feet four may weigh anywhere from 120 pounds to 143 pounds and be perfect.

For the sake of accuracy, the weight charts should list four sets of averages: one for the slight frame, a second for the medium, a third for the large, and still another set for the people with the exceptionally heavy frames. Even then there should be a zone within which weight is considered normal rather than any specific number of pounds. Perfect weight for you is that at which you feel best, have most endurance and can do your best work. This will also be the weight at which you look best.

Where do birthdays come in? They don't. Because most people do take on weight as they get along, the "standard" charts allow for an increase. But your normal weight at 30 is your best weight from then on. Some medical authorities believe that after 40 it is best to lighten the load and be slightly under normal weight for your structure.

In calculating your normal weight, allow a basic 100 pounds for five feet of height for a slight frame; 105 for five feet for a medium frame, and 110 pounds for a stocky frame. Then for each inch over five feet, add five pounds. This works in reverse too. Subtract five pounds for each missing inch if you are under five feet tall.

Check your weight against the following table:

Your Baby And Mine

We speak quite often about the different tempos of individuals and, for simplicity's sake, call the child a "slow" child when we mean that he dawdles and can't get up steam enough to move rapidly until it becomes essential to move. This use of the word slow does not imply any mental backwardness.

But Mrs. L. D. has mistaken the use of the term and thinks the leaflet simplicity will take, that the child's brother and sister are both in the sixth grade and learns very slowly. "She constantly will not play with children because she is so domineering. She has a brother of ten who is very good in his school work. She is jealous of him though we tell her she is beautiful, and talented in speaking, while he is good in school subjects.

"My mother always worshipped my older sister and made us all give in to her. For that reason I never intended to have any favorites. But it is hard not to like a child better who is always friendly and agreeable and never gives any trouble. We love the girl and want to help her but she has us in a turmoil all the time. How will she ever get along with people outside the home? She has been this way since babyhood.

I am wondering if she has been this way since the birth of the boy? She isn't happy and shows it in her behavior. She is domineering with other children because at home she has to submit to the superior mentality of the younger child and to his popularity with the family.

She compensates for this by trying to rule others. Naturally, they don't like it and her unpopularity gives her more cause for heartburnings and unhappiness.

If she has any talents, foster them. If you can give her a legitimate reason for feeling superior she won't be so jealous of her brother. Let her join some character-building group so that she has interests outside the home and companions who will work with her in some common cause.

Consult the teachers about how to help her with her school work. She is somewhat backward. Perhaps attention to eyes and ears would help. Or, just to free her from her nagging jealousy and unhappiness would help to improve her school work.

Try to be more convincing in your demonstration of affection. She knows as well as if you told her that your love is contingent upon her better behavior. For some reason, that knowledge does not improve behavior. You must love her as she is, whatever her failings.

Bulletin Patterns

Tailored Jacket-And-Skirt

There's one ensemble that always looks right—a trimly tailored suit! You can wear Pattern 4905 by Anne Adams with or without a blouse, too —don't you love the gay contrast of plaid jacket and plain skirt? Think up your own "combines" or make it all of one fabric. The jacket may be smartly saddle-stitched, including the two optional pockets. Simple darts at the shoulders and waist make it fit well. You'll find the skirt is easy to make, too, especially with the clever Sewing Instructor! Flannel is easy to work on and comes in lovely colors; use it for the long-sleeved version. A cotton suit would be chic if you plan to wear this in the South . . . make it in seersucker or denim with short sleeves.

Pattern 4905 is available in misses' sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16, jacket, takes 1¼ yards 54 inch fabric and skirt, 1⅞ yards contrast.

Send 20 cents in coins for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly Size, Name, Address and Style Number.

Send your order to The Edmonton Bulletin, Pattern Department, 60 Front St. West, Toronto, Ont.

Debunker

Some women may be more vain than some men, but, in general, women are not as conceited or ostentatious as men. This is the verdict of photographers who have long observed the reactions of men and women before the camera. Edward Steichen, known as one of the world's best photographers, says: "A man about to sit for his portrait is so much vainer than a woman that, comparing them, modesty becomes a purely feminine quality." That's mighty hard on us fellows who thought men were meek and women proud.

Smooth Lines Away By Right Massage

Learn Modern Beauty Methods

Those tell-tale lines around the eyes and mouth! They are signs of age which, fortunately, you can put off a long, long time if you learn scientific beauty methods.

A trained beauty operator would provide special massage to tighten the drooping temple muscles that cause crow's-feet. And you can give yourself the same professional treatments.

After cleansing the face thoroughly, work cream into the skin, kneading and stroking upwards on the forehead from just in front of the ears to the hairline and from the eyebrows to the hairline, as the diagram shows.

Now knead and stroke outward from the outer corner of each eye. Follow with a brisk patting with cream and a final patting with astringent.

How to correct dropping mouth corners, a double chin? Expert facial treatments are explained in our 32-page booklet. Tells how to apply make-up, care for hair and hands. Advice on correcting dry and oily skins, coarse pores and blackheads, removing superfluous hair.

Send 15 cents in coins for your copy of "How To Give Beauty Treatments" to The Edmonton Bulletin, Home Service Department, 60 Front St. West, Toronto, Ont. Be sure to write plainly your Name, Address and the Name of Booklet.

NEW KNITTING GADGET

If you are one who enjoys knitting, yet find that stitches have a way of slipping off the needles when you are not working on the article, you will want to try some of the new miniature bright colored plastic mittens that fit over the ends of the knitting needles. Besides keeping stitches safe, they also prevent nasty jabs.

Winter Sporting Scene Includes Hearty Dishes

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Quantity, stick-to-the-ribness, and and hearty flavor are what skaters, skiers and other winter sports lovers demand in food. Here are answers to "wolf appetites" from Mabel Slade of Jackson, New Hampshire, who loves to feed crowds of skiers during the White Mountain snow season.

HEARTY BEEF AND POTATO PIE

Two pounds of beef (chuck or any piece of inexpensive beef with lots of flavor; must be clear meat), one medium large onion, sliced, 1 quart of raw, potatoes diced small, salt and pepper, pie crust prepared with vegetable shortening.

Cut meat into small cubes—place in sauce pan and just cover meat with cold water. Simmer for 1 hour. Add onion—cook until meat is tender (2 to 3 hours). Add salt and pepper to taste when meat is partly done. Just before it is done add potatoes and when they have cooked through, remove from stove and place in individual pie dishes or in one baking dish. Cover with pie crust ¼ inch in thickness. Brown in hot oven and serve.

"Aunt May" says tons of filled cookies disappear during the ski season. Here's her favorite recipe.

OLD-FASHIONED FILLED COOKIES

(Makes 36 large ones)

Cookie dough: 2 cups sugar; 1 cup shortening (½ butter, ½ vegetable shortening). Cream this mixture. Beat in 2 eggs, add 1 cup sour cream to which has been added 1 teaspoon soda. Take 1¼ cups enriched bread flour and sift through it 2 level teaspoons of baking powder, ½ teaspoon of salt. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla to mixture. Stir in flour mixture. Add more flour to mix dough stiff enough to handle.

Filling: Mix filling, cook and have cooling while you prepare cookie dough. Put ¼ cup each of chopped nuts, raisins and sugar in saucepan. Add 2 tablespoons flour and ¼ cup boiling water. Bring to boiling point and add 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Cool.

Roll out dough quite thin; cut with round cookie cutter. Put tablespoon of filling in centre of one cookie, place another cookie layer on top and press edges together. Bake on buttered tin sheet in quick oven (425 F.).

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Orange juice, crisp bacon, cornbread, syrup, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Creamed eggs on toast, mixed greens salad, old-fashioned filled cookies, tea, milk.

DINNER: Beef and potato pie, baked potatoes, spinach, stewed fruit, chocolate cake, coffee, milk.

Minute Make-Ups

To make rich, new costume colors look well on you, swing over to lipstick and rouge that tie in. To wear, with blues, purples and black; try a blush rose, a lovely, subtle red with pink bud coloring in it. With tans (if you're a blonde), wear poppy, a gay, snappy red! If you're dark, wear a burgundy.

These glamor shades in rouge, lipstick and powder give new zest to your Spring wardrobe. You can match your make-up to a flower, a jewel or a wine!

Mrs. F. C. Butterworth Speaks On The "Forecast From Fiction"

TRACING colorfully the part that literature and the novel, most particularly has played in the drama of human development and progress, Mrs. F. C. Butterworth spoke to members of the University Women's Club at their meeting in the Arts' building, the University campus, one evening this week. The meeting was the annual guest meeting, and members had invited a number of friends to be present.

Mrs. H. C. Newland, the club president, was in the chair.

Basing her address on the title, "Forecast from Fiction," Mrs. Butterworth said, "The demand 'Tell Me a Story' is a demand that, like other deep-rooted desires of the human heart, has been satisfied in different ages in different ways."

Going far back into the history of the world's peoples, Mrs. Butterworth stated that even in ancient days, the story-tellers, the spinners of tales have held a respected place in society. Warring societies had their bards to inspire them to battle, to sing of their victories and to mourn their dead—each castle stronghold in feudal days welcomed the wandering minstrel —the eastern story-teller in the bazaars always drew his share of popularity from visitors and dwellers alike. As in the past, so today, the story-teller, he who could broaden the horizons of his hearers, brighten dull hours, are welcome. Today we have our own authors and their precious product —the literature of our time.

"CRITICISM OF LIFE"

The novel as a "criticism of life" began with George Elliott, received righting emphasis and development from Charles Dickens, has been used by John Galsworthy to picture, along with the beauty and worth of this life, its sordid injustices and hatreds, and today is finding its champions in the writing fraternity of all the world.

Writers from earliest times have written of life, not only as it is but as it might be. From the "Revelations" of Biblical writing to H. G. Wells' book, "Babes in the Darkling World," writers have spoken of life as it might be lived—and of a world worth struggling for.

Treating her subject from the standpoint of individual writers and their books, Mrs. Butterworth mentioned some of the more recent writings, tracing the way in which they unfold the authors' dreams and aspirations—and through them—the dreams of the whole world.

BOOKS OF TODAY

Passionate indictments against the injustices of the world, its crooked reforms, and its proposed remedies for a fuller, happier and more worthwhile life for man—all these have found their ways into the books of today. All reveal the living, vital stream of human progress. All seek to improve—in the great authors of the world have already done—that "the pen is mightier than the sword."

Following the address, coffee was served in the common room. Serviteurs were Mrs. E. H. Moss, Miss M. Reid, Miss E. Sparling, Mrs. Alan McTavish, Miss E. Kinnear, Miss Ruth Shipley, Miss Lois Gainer, Miss Dorothy Elliott and Mrs. A. W. New, convener.

Chapter To Aid In Sale Of Certificates

Chapter members present at the meeting of the Fort Edmonton chapter, I.O.D.E. one evening this week, showed their desire to assist in the national chapter undertaking to promote increased sales of war savings certificates. Mrs. W. L. McBeth was named to supervise arrangements for the chapter.

Fifteen members were present at the meeting, and Mrs. H. G. Curry, regent, was in the chair.

Mrs. R. Lamberston reported 35 articles in knitted goods received during the month and made an appeal for increased knitting for residents, particularly children, in bombed areas in Great Britain.

Letters from teachers in rural districts thanking members for gifts of books and Christmas gifts were read by Mrs. T. H. Thomas-Peter.

Miss E. Butterworth was announced winner of a blanket and Miss Jean Milroy, of a Christmas hamper. Mrs. T. J. Johnston was thanked for her work in distributing tickets for the opera presented in December.

Nominations committee consists of Mrs. W. L. McBeth, Mrs. E. Ford and Mrs. F. Booth.

Judge MacGill Is Feted At Evening Party

In honor of her guest, Judge Helen Gregory MacGill, LL.D., J.P., judge of the juvenile court in Vancouver, who arrived in Edmonton on Tuesday morning and left at midnight on the same day, Mrs. W. A. McConkey entertained several friends at a delightful evening party on Tuesday.

Judge MacGill has been spending the Christmas-New Year holiday with her daughter, Miss Elsie MacGill, who is an engineer of the Canadian Car and Foundry plant at Fort William, Ontario.

During the evening, Judge MacGill spoke on juvenile court work, and also on the neighborhood housing plan, now prevalent in Vancouver.

Tea was poured by Mrs. D. L. Shortliffe, who was assisted by Mrs. W. Rowan.

Mrs. McConkey invited as her guests, a group of Edmonton women who are interested in social service work.

Guests included Mrs. Cora T. Casselman, M.P., Mrs. E. W. S. Kane, Mrs. H. E. Smith, Mrs. Morden Long, Mrs. Frank Conroy, Mrs. Ray Schurman, Mrs. H. C. Newland, Mrs. J. F. Woodsworth, Mrs. Frederick Yeomans, Mrs. D. S. MacKenzie, Mrs. F. C. Butterworth, Mrs. W. J. Ross, Mrs. J. A. Clarke, Mrs. Murray MacDonald, Mrs. W. Rowan and Mrs. D. Shortliffe.

Augustus Chapter Sends Supplies To Military Hospital

Two dozen dressing gowns have been sent to the Military Hospital, it was reported at a meeting of the Fort Augustus Chapter, I.O.D.E., held recently. The vice-regent, Miss D. Horne, was in the chair in the absence of the regent, Mrs. T. W. Cogland. Members handed in a number of knitted articles.

A Christmas hamper has been given to an ex-serviceman's family, and Christmas treats provided for children in the military hospital. Members of the chapter assisted with the sale of goods made by the blind.

Mr. A. Bayly Is Speaker At H.S.A. Meet

Speaking before members of division No. 6, study group of the Garneau Home and School Association, Mr. A. G. Bayly of Garneau school, gave a short address on report cards. He highlighted his remarks by saying that "An adequate home report informs parents of their child's school progress, avials children in evaluating their progress and in making them responsible for it."

"Co-operation between home and school to further the progress of children and bring about cordial relations between home and school are other essential considerations of a well formulated report card, he said.

Contrasting the newer report cards with the old, Mr. Bayly told of the advantages of the new over the old. "When emphasis was placed entirely on knowledge, as in the old report card, the result was highly competitive, resulting in mental scars to the child of lower scholastic attainment," he said.

"An improved card devoted half to skills and half to social development proved still too competitive and lacking in comprehension to parents.

"A recent investigation has for its objective a better but comprehensive home report which aims to give a record of skills and citizenship on a broader basis of classification," he concluded.

Mr. R. L. Anderson, presided at the well-attended meeting.

Lieut. MacLean Is Married In Vancouver

VANCOUVER, Jan. 7.—A choral rendering of Epiphany carols formed the timely musical complement to the wedding Tuesday evening in St. Paul's Anglican Church at which Daphne Margaret, eldest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Covernton, became the bride of Lieut. Russell Stevenson MacLean, Edmonton Fusiliers, son of Mrs. MacLean of Calgary and the late Hugh Alexander MacLean.

Original in design was the distinctive gown of the bride. Of heavy satin in ivory tone, the dress featured a heavily shirred yoke and sleeves which extended to lily points at the wrist. A tiny brimless hat of white French felt spooned as ornament long-trimmed white French flowers moulded of the same fabric, and from it flowed a waist-length veil of delicate illusion net, edged with seed pearls, which had been worn by the bride's mother at her wedding.

Mrs. Percy O'Bryan, the bride's sister, and Mrs. Paul Young, as attendants, wore matching frocks in patest turquoise blue chiffon, with shirred shoulders in their bishop sleeves and fitted bodices above long, full skirts. Their hats were tilted caps of pastel pink and mauve felt flowers. Her flowers were a shoulder corsage of freesia and white heather, while the two attendants wore Lady pink carnations.

Canon Harold J. King officiated at the ceremony, at which the bride was given in marriage by her father.

Mr. Maitland McCarthy was groomsman, and ushers were the bride's three brothers, Lieut Stephen Covernton, Lieut. Carleton Covernton and Mr. Theo Covernton, and two cousins, Mr. Chargo Campbell and Mr. Paul Young.

A reception followed at the Laurier avenue home of Dr. and Mrs. Covernton.

Leaving later for a motor trip on Vancouver Island, the bride travelled in a three-piece ensemble of sapphire blue lady's cloth, with a high rolled collar inset with matching suede on the long fitted jacket and stitched pleats in the skirt front. Her boxy topcoat sponsored a grey squirrel collar and her matching blue hat was trimmed with a jaunty red feather mount. Accessories were in red snakeskin.

McCoy Health Service

The most important thing you want to know about your liver is that you could not live without it. That is, your liver is absolutely essential to your life.

The liver is the largest gland in the body and differs from other organs in that it has a double blood supply. The second blood supply comes to it by way of the portal circulation. This represents a wonderful safeguard provided by Nature as it means that poisons taken from the intestines will reach the liver, where they are soaked up and many of them changed into harmless substances before they have a chance to reach the general circulation and be carried all over the body. In this way the liver acts as a purifying agent.

The liver also helps you to use starches and sugars. Another duty of the liver is to take worn-out blood cells and break them down, storing part of the valuable iron obtained in this way, for later use. The liver is ever thrifty enough to use part of the old red blood cells in making bile, a substance necessary to normal digestion.

The thing most people connect with the liver is the bile which is continually secreted. The bile may enter the small intestine directly or may be stored for a time in the gall bladder.

Wonderful as the liver is, if you eat carelessly and if you allow intestinal sluggishness to persist the liver may become overworked in time and you may then develop what the layman calls a bilious attack. Such an attack indicates that the liver has not been able to take care of all of the impurities coming to it and some have escaped into the general circulation.

Some of the symptoms of biliousness are headache, mental depression, coated tongue, unpleasant breath, nausea or vomiting, poor appetite, a tired, listless feeling, yellowish discoloration of the whites of the eyes, and other symptoms.

A bilious attack may frequently be shortened by using the following measures. Drink plenty of water, using it warm if you prefer. Start on a fruit juice fast, using an 8 ounce glass of orange juice, tomato juice, grapefruit juice or pineapple juice every 2 hours. Stick to one kind of juice throughout any one day and remain on the fast as long as you are sick. Usually in a day or two you will improve enough to feel you are over the attack, but do not be afraid to stay on the juices as long as 5 days if necessary. During the fasting period, take at least one enema daily If there is much discomfort over the liver area, apply hot, moist towels for 15 or 20 minutes at a time, repeating this once or twice a day.

You will soon begin to feel better if you are experiencing an attack of simple biliousness. With returning health, resolve to be more careful as to your diet. Try to cut down on the starches, sugars and fats if you have been using these to excess and use more cooked and raw vegetables in the diet. Exercise each day, either by walking, riding horseback, or taking calisthenics.

Follow this commonsense regimen and you should be able to overcome any tendency to biliousness. Once you get your liver to working normally, you do not need to be blue and bilious in the future, for if you will stick to a healthful way of living you will have no return whatever of the bilious attacks.

All questions regarding Health and Diet will be answered. Large, stamped, self - addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service, 1181 West 6th St., Los Angeles, Calif.

Mother, This Home-Mixed Cough Relief Is Splendid

Saves Real Money. No Cooking. Real Results.

To get really surprising relief from coughs due to colds, you need only prepare a medicine, right in your own home. It's very easy—anyone can do it—needs no cooking, and tastes so good that children take it willingly. But you'll say it's hard to beat, for quick results.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, and pour it into a 16 ounce bottle. Then add your syrup. This gives you 14 ounces of really splendid cough syrup—about 4 times as much for your money. It never spoils, and lasts a family a long time.

And for real, quick relief, it is actually splendid. It works in three ways —loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Never refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Milder Weather Forecast Here

Above zero readings in the far north and the forecast for Alberta and Peace River stating "moderate winds, fair, with stationary or little higher temperatures" all point to milder weather in Edmonton.

Low readings of 12 below was registered at 1:30 a.m. Wednesday and the high of 4 above at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday. Day's average reading was 9 below.

Zero readings were reported at Aklavik, Dawson and McMurray. Ft. Smith was the only point in the territories with a below zero reading. It reported 7 below.

First Shipment Blood Sent For War Casualties

Slightly more than seven pints of "whole" blood were shipped from Edmonton by way of C.N.R. on Tuesday night, following the taking of blood from 10 male donors at the Royal Alexandra hospital, under auspices of the Edmonton branch of the Red Cross Society.

The blood was sent under special care of the railway to the Connaught Laboratories, Toronto, where it will be processed into powder for shipment to the Allied front for transfusions for war casualties.

Blood will be obtained from six members of the R.C.M.P. at the hospital Thursday night.

If the experimental shipment of whole blood is successful a permanent blood clinic will be established in Edmonton, requiring services of 2,000 donors making regular contributions.

Dr. Dora Newson, assistant pathologist at the hospital, and members of her nursing staff are in charge of the taking of blood at the hospital, and perform their duties in addition to their regular tasks in the hospital. Praise for the efficiency of their work was accorded Wednesday by Robert Wetherell, secretary-manager of the Red Cross in Edmonton.

Chamber Of Mines To Name Chiefs

Preparations for the annual banquet of the Alberta and North West Chamber of Mines to be held in the Edmonton Club at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, are nearing completion, L. E. Drummond, secretary-manager of the chamber, stated Wednesday.

Eight new directors of the chamber will be elected at the meeting. The chamber has a directorate of 16 members, eight of whom are elected on alternate years.

Reports of the year's activities of the chamber will be given by John Michaels, president; L. E. Drummond, secretary - manager, and James Walker, treasurer.

Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines and Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, will represent the provincial government. Mayor John W. Fry will represent the city.

A new panel to succeed John Michaels will be chosen from among the 16 directors. This will be done after the election of the new officers.

Max W. Ball, president of the Absaand Oils Ltd., of McMurray, will address the meeting on "The Essential Freedom." Motion pictures of the Yukon will be shown.

Gyro Club Holds Business Meeting

As is the customary procedure the first Tuesday in the month, meeting of members of the Edmonton Gyro club was restricted to business only when held in the Edmonton Club headquarters and was preceded by a dinner at 6:30.

Russ Carter, chairman of the committee presided at the meeting which was devoted to winding up of the business of 1941, and the planning of new work for 1942.

Alberta School Division Heads Are Appointed

Appointment of three new divisional school superintendents was announced Tuesday by Premier William Aberhart, in his capacity as minister of education. The appointments are to fill vacancies in the field staff of the department of education resulting from leave of absence granted to men who have joined the active service forces of Canada.

The superintendents appointed are Findlay Barnes, B.Sc., B. Educ., of Hillhurst intermediate school, Calgary, to be superintendent of Rocky Mountain school division No. 15, with headquarters at Rocky Mountain House; Edgar W. Hinman, B.A., honors, of Cardston, to Pincher Creek S.D., No. 29; and J. Sylvestre, B.Sc. Arts, to Bonnyville S.D. No. 46, with headquarters at Bonnyville.

TAUGHT SEVERAL SCHOOLS

Mr. Barnes succeeds H. R. Ross at Rocky Mountain, the latter being transferred to the superintendency of the Ponoka school division. Mr. Barnes has taught in rural schools of the province and, before going to Calgary, was at Okotoks. He obtained his B.Sc. degree in 1934 and his B. Educ. in 1941, both from the University of Alberta.

Mr. Hinman at Pincher Creek follows A. W. Reeves, who has been transferred to the Edmonton Normal school. He taught in rural schools in Alberta and in the town of Stirling and Cardston, being on the high school staff in the latter place for seven years. His M.A. degree with honors is from Brigham Young university, Utah.

GOES TO R.C.A.F.

At Bonnyville Mr. Sylvestre succeeds J. F. Swan, who is now an instructor with the R.C.A.F. at Moose Jaw. His university degree is from Laval University and for the past 12 years he has been on the Separate School staff of Edmonton, previously teaching in Alberta rural schools and receiving his Normal school training at Calgary.

3 Credit Unions Obtain Charters

Bringing the total of co-operative savings and credit associations in Alberta to 61, three charters for new credit unions have been granted, according to an announcement Wednesday by Hon. E. C. Manning, minister of trade and industry.

The unions are the Calgary Fire Fighters, Goodride and La Parousse st. Vincent. The Calgary union is similar to that of the Edmonton fire fighters and a potential membership of 125 is reported. The Goodride and St. Vincent unions are composed of rural residents in the St. Paul area.

Credit union assets reached $159,786 at the end of November, a gain of $19,000 during the month. Loans outstanding totalled $119,077 and loans since the movement began amount to $184,000 many with $507,467. Membership was 4,505.

Calgary Official Is Granted Leave To Take Position Here

H. V. Sidney, secretary-treasurer of Calgary's Public School Board, may shortly take over the duties of deputy regional representative in Edmonton of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

At a meeting held Tuesday by the building and finance committee of the Calgary School Board it was unanimously decided that Sidney be granted leave of absence to enable him to take over war duties.

Mr. Sidney is well-known throughout western Canada. Prior to the Great War he worked in Regina, but enlisted immediately war broke out and served with distinction in France, and on demobilization worked for a period with the Federal government, being stationed at Oliawa. He left the government service to take over the present position as secretary-treasurer of the Calgary School Board.

CALGARY, Jan. 7—Results of non-commissioned officers' examinations for the rank of sergeant, Part I, held recently, show that 30 passed out of a class of 38 at Edmonton and qualified to take the course in Part II which starts on Wednesday, Jan. 14 at the Edmonton Armouries, according to an announcement made today at headquarters of Military District No. 13.

The first part of the course now completed was "Common to All Arms," while Part II will be "Special to Arms". The courses to be held at Edmonton will deal with reconnaissance, artillery, signalling, infantry and Army Service Corps, the various candidates taking the course peculiar to their branch of the service.

Lt.-Col. E. Brown, M.M., E.D., area commandant, will be in charge of the school at Edmonton.

At Calgary 39 out of 47 candidates were successful in the examination for qualification in Part I.

It was announced that members of units who qualified for sergeant, Part I, previous to the last course, will be eligible to take Part II in the course starting on Jan. 14.

SUCCESSFUL CANDIDATES

The following Edmonton candidates were successful in the Part I examination:

United Farmers To Meet Here Jan. 20: Prepare Program

In conjunction with the annual convention of the United Farmers of Alberta, arrangements have been completed for a radio broadcast of the social functions and an exchange of greetings with other farmer organizations in Canada and United States, for the evening of January 22.

The broadcast, entitled "International Farmers' Good Neighbor" program, will be heard over the CBC Western Network from 9:30 to 10 p.m. and over CKUA from 9 to 12. It will also be heard over CFCN, Calgary, from 10:30 to 12.

The convention will commence on January 20 and last for four days. It will be held in the Macdonald hotel.

Eastwood Group Sends Comforts To Men Overseas

Providing comforts for the boys of the Eastwood community who are on active service, the Eastwood community league has recently shipped 78 parcels, containing one sweater and two pairs of socks. It was reported at Tuesday night's meeting of the league.

Acknowledgments have been received from many points in the British Isles and in Canada, and one letter of thanks has been received from Gibraltar, it was stated.

The league raises the funds for wool through whist drives and other social affairs, and the women members knit the articles.

Following the Christmas recess, the handicraft class will again meet on Thursday at 8:30 p.m. in the community hall.

Taximen Are Convicted For Fast Driving

Two taxi drivers who were involved in a traffic crash Dec. 26 last, in which an Edmonton man claims to have been fatally deafened in one ear, were each convicted on the other's testimony when they appeared in police court Tuesday charged with driving at an excessive rate of speed.

Magistrate A. I. Millar, K.C., imposed fines of $20 and costs with the option of 20-day jail terms on Michael Lebeck, of 202 Craignair Block, and John Bailko, 10264 99 street, both taxi drivers.

A third traffic offender, John Rudd, of 10731 78 avenue, who was involved in an accident in which several persons required hospital treatment was also fined $20 and costs with the 30 day optional jail term when he pleaded guilty to dangerous driving.

CLAIMS INJURY

Gordon Shillabeer, Edmonton radio announcer, told the court that he was riding in the front seat of Lebeck's taxi when it was struck by the vehicle operated by Bailko and that as a result of the crash he was deafened in one ear.

Each of the taxi drivers took the witness stand and claimed that the other was responsible for the accident at 115 avenue and 92 street on Dec. 7, in which Mr. Shillabeer received the alleged injury. Magistrate Millar, however, found that both were guilty of operating their cars at an unreasonable rate of speed.

Care Required In Supervision Of Insurance Books

Warning against carelessness and indifference regarding their insurance books, on the part of insured workers, was issued Wednesday by William Carnill, manager of the employment and claims office of the unemployment insurance commission.

Mr. Carnill stated that many workers fail to get their books from their employers when they leave their jobs to work elsewhere. Instead, they get new books from their new employers and start all over again with their contributions. Others lose their books and fail to report the loss to the claims officer.

Every insured worker should realize that his unemployment insurance book represents real money—money from his own pay envelope and from his employer's bank account—money that should be available for him and for his family if he ever becomes separated from his employment, Mr. Carnill said.

Gallant Airman Is "Presumed Killed"

Acting Flt. Lt. Lionel Manley Gaunce, D.F.C., previously reported missing, is now listed as presumed killed in action in a casualty list issued Wednesday in London.

Flt. Lt. Gaunce was born in Lethbridge but grew up in Edmonton and was well known here and in the district. His parents reside at Derwent. He was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, August 19, 1940, for gallantry and "excellent coolness and leadership". He was listed as missing, presumed killed in action, last November.

Burns' Dinner To Be Held Jan. 24

Annual Burns' Dinner in honor of the birthday of Robert Burns, Scotland's national bard, will be held in the Macdonald hotel on Saturday, January 24, according to Dr. M. R. Bow, club president.

Main speaker for the evening will be J. Boyd McBride, K.C., of this city. Other speakers include Robert Muir and S. H. McCuaig, K.C. Details of the program for the meeting will be considered at a meeting next Friday.

Out Of Torpedoes, British Submarine Makes Daring Surface Attack

Smoke from supplies they set afire covering the horizon, British Commandos hurry back to their waiting invasion barge after surprise dawn landing on German-occupied Norwegian port of Vaagsoe. Comrades help Tommy wounded in action during which almost entire garrison of 200 Germans was killed or taken prisoner. Plants and weapons were dynamited.

Blonde Ursula McGowan looks like a winner but there were 38 others just like her for the judges to pick from in naming Miss 1942 in Venice, Calif., contest with 40 beauties as contestants.

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

A NORTH SEA SUBMARINE BASE, Jan. 7—Straight ahead, out across the body of water which stretches from this rain-swept base to the coastline opposite, is a German life line.

It sweeps from the iron ore mines of Narvik, in Norway, down to the wharf sheds which line the southernmost coast of the crescent-shaped Bay of Biscay.

To cut that life-line is the job of the squat, low-lying submarines, being fueled and re-fitted at the dockside of this estuary. It is not easy.

A submarine patrol can be a long, nerve-shattering time. Rain and fog often blanket this North Sea, which winter winds can whip into 40-foot waves that make rudder and propeller control impossible, if you've the temerity to surface after a German ship in such weather.

Shy, apologetic, 26-year-old Lt. Dennis of His Majesty's Navy, attached to this submarine flotilla, explained this as we clambered down the slippery, oil-covered rungs of a steel ladder into a torpedo room on inspection tour.

In eighteen months this submarine had been through plenty. The Mediterranean first, the North Sea later, re-fitting now. They were tearing the engines apart, painting the heavy metal doors of the twin forward tubes, getting ready for the next trip out.

GUNNING FOR NAZI FREIGHTERS

The last line-cutting trip out, Dennis said, had been worthwhile. It made up for the inactivity of two previous trips.

The Germans send their freighters down the coast in groups and for long weeks nothing happens, but this time they intercepted part of a convoy.

"Many times they had rehearsed for just such a situation . . . the crew was on deck fast . . . ten fatal rounds poured into the German ship . . ."

Along the surface by night, and below by day, they had proceeded to the area which was to be their patrol zone, unless something forced them back to base.

En route once, they had received from "shore-operations" what Dennis terms "a tinkle by radio." Except for that cryptic lone message, they were on their own, as completely cut off as the crew of a giant four-engined bomber, fighting a slow passage through bad skies to Berlin and back.

In steady, monotonous fashion they had moved closer to the zone and the German shore. The fog most days, but it also permitted most days, but ot also permitted them to surface more frequently and let the fresh, cold, North Sea air flow down through the open hatchway.

One nightfall they were on the surface, one mile from the German-occupied coast. The stars were out and the sea had abated and from this close distance they had no trouble visualizing the steel-helmeted artilleryman who stood restlessly by the side of guns and searchlights which guarded that strip of high cliffland.

The German convoy broke slowly from out of a mantle of light fog, Dennis said, holding the Captain and himself transfixed. Then the spell ended. A sharp order, and their sub was sliding below the surface, headed for the enemy vessels.

Swiftly they drew closer to shore. The convoy was hugging the high-walled shore line which broke almost straight to a great depth down into the water below. At four hundred yards from land, the Captain barked "Port torpedo—fire!"

They could hear the terrific explosion which followed a short moment later.

"That freighter must have gone 100 feet in the air," Dennis said. "All munitions, probably, for the destruction was so complete. Whole lorries were tossed to an incredible height, and for that one moment as I looked through the periscope I felt sick."

SINKING A SHIP WITH GUN FIRE

They had twisted their course by then. A German cruiser was moving in and out, trying to locate them, but it's hard to see a periscope at night.

They sank one more ship and then there were no torpedoes. But they had shells, so they submerged. Dennis said many times they had rehearsed unlimbering their gun, for just such a situation, but never had it worked so smoothly.

Calmly, in a line before the steel-runged ladder, the gun crew and shell handlers stood. The Captain looked around once, gave the signal to blow all tanks and then with a rush the submarine burst to the surface. The crew was up on deck fast, tearing away the muzzle and breech covers and in one motion shells were being passed upward.

Before the enemy's guns could get their range, ten fatal rounds had been poured into the side of the nearest German ship, the men had scrambled back down the hatch, and then they were fighting for depth.

Through the periscope they saw a German ship racing toward them. Dennis said that as the water mounted slowly around the conning tower he thought they would never get below.

"I watched the depth gauge. We could hear the propellers racing overhead and then came the depth charges. The boat just gave a shudder and kept going. But it was a strain for some time, always waiting for that next one."

Naval Hero

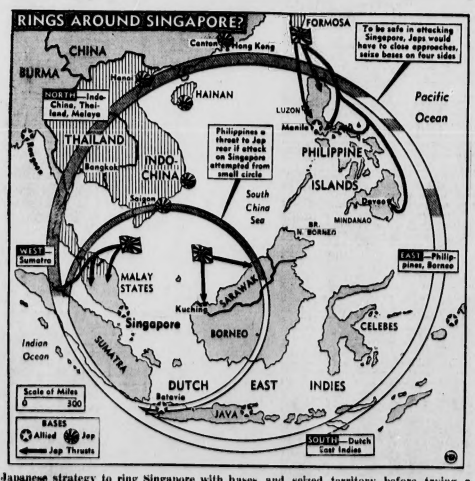

This is a portrait of a naval hero, Ensign P. M. Fisher, above, of Ivanhoe, N.C. He was piloting a navy patrol plane over raging Pacific waters miles off Oahu Island when he spied nine U.S. army airmen adrift in two tiny life rafts. Setting his plane down on the 40-foot, shark-infested waves, Ensign Fisher rescued them. Admiral Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the Pacific Fleet, awarded Fisher and his co-pilot the Navy Cross.

Lot Of Good News From Libya

Here's a report of good news—and lots of it—from the Libyan battle front. Axis soldiers raise a forest of surrendering hands after being trapped. Some wave white handkerchiefs so there's no mistake about the surrender. Tommy, back to camera, guards them.

Japanese strategy to ring Singapore with bases and seized territory before trying a direct attack becomes apparent through direction of Nipponese thrusts. Map shows how Japs attempt encirclement.

"Face Lifting"

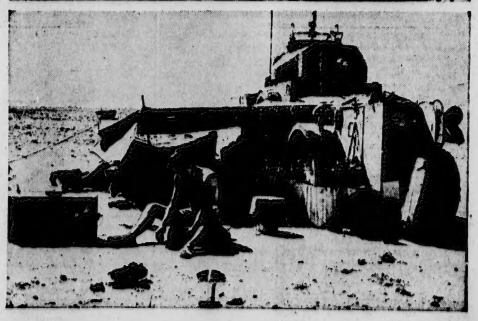

There will be a big boost in the automobile tire retreading business from Hudson's Bay to Lower California as result of curbs on purchase of new tires by rubber control authorities of Canada and the United States. Here is a worn-out tire standing side by side with one that has had its face "lifted" and will now go back on a car that otherwise would be tire-less.

Fighters Around The Globe

From Manchester to Malaya, from London to Libya, soldiers of the British Empire are on the move and in the fight. At Singapore, above, turbaned Indian troops disembark to defend Britain's great naval base. On Malayan plains, top right, British anti-aircraft gun protected by tank barriers blasts into the sky where Jap planes now attack. At home on the African desert, bottom right, is an armored car crew member.

REFUGEE — By Vida Hurst

NANA DUVALL, orphaned refugee is befriended by STEVE ROBERTS, reporter who obtains a job for her as governess for NICKY CRAWFORD. Because Mark Pepper, heart interest of Mrs. Crawford's sister, POLLY STANTON, takes an interest in Nana, she is discharged. Also contributing to her discharge was the fact that she had the chauffeur, JAMES, stop and pick up an old man one day, adding to the Crawfords' fear of kidnappers. Because Jamie makes advances toward her on the way to town, she determines to stay some place where he will be unable to find her. She will not call Steve because he is engaged to BETSY, daughter of his newspaper's publisher. Mark Pepper has her trailed and, finding her, asks her to have dinner with him. It is Christmas Eve. Unable to find work, Nana accepts Mark's proposal though they both are aware she doesn't love him. Mark pays her living expenses. Meeting Steve on the street, Nana takes him to her apartment to her own identity. She was not even conscious of following him. She existed merely to float in his arms.

When Steve whispered, "Wonderful, isn't it, Nana?" she nodded dreamily, knowing this was a moment she would never forget.

Steve, too, felt exhilarated by the experience. Nana had aroused in him a feeling of tenderness he had not had for any girl before. Perhaps because originally she had been dependent on his protection. She seemed too innocent and fragile to face the world alone. And he realized, as Nana didn't, that she was marrying Mark Pepper only because she was so frightened. The temptation to urge her not to do so was strong. Steve did not like Mark

Steve went with Nana—to the elevator, but neither of them saw Mark who was stationed nearby. He had been sitting there for hours, waiting to see Nana.

explain her engagement when Mark walks in. Both men leave and Nana, knowing that Steve has misunderstood, calls him. He suggests they have dinner together and she tells him she is going to marry Mark.

CHAPTER XIV

"NOW that we both have put all our cards on the table, how about celebrating?" Steve asked Nana glanced at him inquiringly.

"I've not danced with you yet," he reminded her. "And the night is young and full of music if you know where to look for it."

Completely forgetting Mark and his ultimatum, Nana cried, "Oh, yes, I'd like to dance with you, Steve."

COMRADESHIP

For the first time since the afternoon in the nursery when they had talked in low voices before the nursery fire Nana felt completely at ease with him. There was comradeship between them which did not exist with Mark. They could laugh together and when they danced Nana knew she had never really danced before.

Mark was an excellent dancer, but with Steve she seemed to lose any better than Mark liked him.

"But what can I offer her instead?" Steve thought. "At least she will be taken care of. Which is all I'm really concerned about."

He could not resist offering her another possible solution.

"If you should happen to change your mind," he remarked casually, "about marrying Mark, I mean, I'll be glad to help you work up a class for Spanish lessons. It's quite the language right now. Several newspaper men I know are anxious to learn, hoping to be sent to South America. And I should like to be your first pupil."

She smiled at him wistfully.

"That is kind of you Steve. But I have no intention of changing my mind. In my father's country," she explained gently, "an engagement is almost as serious as marriage."

"I see," Steve replied, vaguely troubled but conscious that his objection to Mark was unreasonable. "Well, it's up to you, of course. I just wanted you to know there is an alternative."

Was he losing his mind? If she didn't marry Mark now, it would be his responsibility. Yet he could not seem to help urging her not to do it. Even if he had to drag in the pupils partially, by golly, he'd rather do it than see her marry a man she didn't love.

"Don't be a fool," his cynical newspaper reporter self warned him. "She's made her decision and you're well out of it. So let her alone." But that other chivalrous person who had come to her rescue on the ship was uppermost tonight. And he was recklessly sweet to the girl whose eyes continued to adore him even while her lips repeated her loyalty to Mark.

"Let's dance," he said

DELICATE

At least while dancing he could not promulgate any more wild ideas but his rebellious arms held her close, his lips almost unconsciously were pressed against her hair. She was so delicate, so sensitive. . . . The knowledge that this was probably the last time they would ever be alone together intensified her charm.

He could not keep from thinking that whether she realized it or not he was the one she really wanted . . . Although his other self, infatuated by the more sophisticated Betsy Woodward, leered at the idea.

When the music stopped and the musicians began to hastily collect their instruments, Steve released her with mingled relief and regret. Another moment and he would have made a complete idiot of himself

As for Nana she was completely confused. There had been more than casual friendliness in Steve's embrace. An emotion she had never felt before had made her tremble in his arms. But he had said nothing. She suspected that he would never say anything. And belatedly she remembered that she had no right to even be here. It was a stolen evening. Not to be repeated. A solitary gift from the gods.

Both were silent on the way back to her hotel. But just before they reached it Steve's hand sought hers.

"Guess we'd better not see each other again, Nana."

"No," she agreed.

"I hope you're going to be very happy."

"I'm going to try to make Mark happy," she said honestly.

He went with her to the elevator, but neither of them saw Mark who was stationed at a nearby desk. He had been sitting there for hours. Calling to apologize for his rude behavior earlier in the evening, he had been unable to reach Nana. And now that he saw all his suspicions confirmed, he continued to sit there even after Steve had gone

To Mark Pepper there was only one answer to such ingratitude on the part of the little refugee he had been planning to marry. Polly had been right. She was not the lovely white goddess he had considered her.

And because all his illusions had been completely shattered by the sight of her with Steve, Mark sat like a man stunned. Then rising he walked past an officiously sympathetic night clerk into the adjoining bar.

It was three days before Nana heard from him. Three days of suspense and doubt on her part, during which she paid in full for her evening with Steve. Worried for fear something might have happened to him, she finally telephoned the club where he had been staying while his parents were away. Mr. Pepper was not in were all the information she could obtain

Nana resigned herself to wait and she did not call Steve, but during those three days she was forced to look into her own heart and what she saw there astonished her. She was in love with one man, planning to marry another. If she had the opportunity to marry Steve, she would not have hesitated.

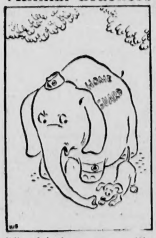

All the money in the world would not have made Mark as desirable to her. But Mark knew she did not love him. Had insisted he wanted her anyway. Had he given the courage to try to support herself by accepting Steve's offer to secure students knowing Steve himself intended to marry Betsy Woodward? Might she not learn to love Mark after they were married? Although she had been born in America her ideas of marriage were entirely European, so had been until now when, torn by loyalty to Mark and self-reproach, she told herself it would be worse to break her engagement than to marry him.

She was spared the decision. Mark arrived at the end of the third day pale but calm, with a carnation in his buttonhole. He spoke without emotion, too proud to let her know what he had suffered

"It's all over, Nana. You may stay on here until the end of the month if you like, but our marriage is off."

He won the Pocono, South Shore and Scranton open team-of-four championships last June, the Atlantic City open pair championship in September, the All-American Masters Individual at Chicago and the Metropolitan open pairs in New York in October and the Schenectady open pair championship in November.

Here is an example of his style of play. Sitting South, he won the opening lead with the nine of spades. He led a low diamond to the king, and a return diamond lead was ducked to West. As Leventritt had hoped, West now felt embarrassed for an exit. He selected the three of clubs, and the king won East's queen.

The club ace was cashed, and the diamond ace put South in to lead the seven of clubs, forcing West's jack. West was now helpless, as either a heart or a spade lead would give Leventritt his ninth trick.

Price Meeting Postponed Here To January 16

The public meeting in the Memorial Hall at which Walter S. Campbell, prices and supply representative of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board is to deal with the operations of the board, has been postponed one week, from Friday, Jan. 9, to Friday, Jan. 16.

Mr. Campbell will be speaker at a luncheon meeting in the Corona hotel on Saturday at noon, when he will address the Commercial Travellers' Association on price control matters.

Postponement of the public meeting is due to a number of changes either made or pending, which the board is making in respect of subsidies on imported goods. While essential articles for general use which must be imported, will receive subsidies to enable merchants to sell them at the price in effect between Sept. 15 and Oct. 11 last, articles of a luxury and semi-luxury nature will be exempted from a subsidy. These include fresh fruits and vegetables from abroad, furs and fur garments and motor vehicles.

MORE GOODS SUBSIDIZED

A still larger list of imported goods, covering 37 classes and including (among others) fish and game, nursery stock, dairy products, edible nuts (except green peanuts), confectionery, tobaccos, liquors, cosmetics, printed matter, furniture, electrical appliances, children's vehicles, pleasure boats, radios, cameras, motion picture film, office machines, building materials, embroideries, silk and cotton apparel, smokers' accessories, sporting equipment, jewellery and precious gems, many leather goods and works of art, will also be excluded from receiving import subsidies, though importers who cleared their entries in the month of December last, before these changes were ordered, will receive subsidies to that time.

Where contracts were made in December and import entries have not therefore been possible, the board will give consideration in all cases where particulars of the contracts are filed before Jan. 15 with the Commodity Price Stabilization Corporation, and the goods are passed on or before March 31 next.

SPEAKS IN SOUTH

Next week Mr. Campbell will address a series of meetings in Southern Alberta.

His schedule is as follows: Monday, Jan. 12, public meeting, Medicine Hat town hall; Tuesday evening, Jan. 13, Lethbridge; Wednesday, noon, Calgary board of trade, Palliser hotel with wholesalers and retailers attending; Wednesday afternoon, meeting at the Palliser hotel under board of trade auspices.

At these meetings, Mr. Campbell will deal with operations of the board and will answer questions submitted.

members of the motoring public buy the tanks and Bren gun carriers, just like they have been purchasing their new automobiles? Salesmen could keep right on extolling the virtues of this or that model.

The citizen could break in a tank or a gun carrier, turn it over to the army after running it a few hundred miles, then get another one from the factory and repeat the process. We could keep the tanks rolling, solve local transportation problems and maintain motor-minded public morale at a high level. And incidentally pay for the war.

There would doubtless be some unique, if not humorous incidents resulting from such a scheme. Police traffic reports would be apt to read something like this: "The driver of the medium, 40-ton destroyer tank, told police he didn't realize he had struck anything until he got home. When putting his tank away for the night, he found the 10 ft. street subway clinging to the front caterpillar tread. It was foggy at the time and with all his turrets closed his driving board on sound and felt no jar. A careless driver in front of him had been practicing firing from his 77 millimeter guns on Jasper avenue and this distracted his attention, he told police. Police state they will charge the driver with 'cantankerous' driving."

* * *

Actually the public of Canada and the United States possessed far more automobiles than were required for purely transportation purposes. First and never passenger automobiles by the thousands rolled along city streets and country highways with only one or two occupants. Other thousands were parked at curbs from morning to night. It has been estimated that by operating one-third of the passenger cars in use at the load factor, all transportation problems could be cared for. By that is meant the motor cars now in use of a smaller number of cars. Looks like it will come to just that.

Appointed Rector Of Christ Church

Named to succeed Rev. Canon Godfrey P. Gower, now serving as chaplain with the R.C.A.F. with the rank of flight lieutenant, Rev. E. S. Ottley of Streetsville, Ont., will come to Edmonton on Thursday, Jan. 15. He has accepted the ministarry of Christ church, the synod office said Tuesday. Mr. Ottley has been rector of Streetsville since 1937.

Speaker Lauds Work Of Naval Units In War

The speaker described his being called to the colors as a first class wireless operator in the merchant navy, and subsequent experiences behind the throbbing arm of a telegraph machine.

He referred briefly to the love all sailors have for news of home. "That news isn't always good," he said, citing instances of merchant sailors receiving word of their homes being bombed to rubble, of wives, mothers of children slain in "the indescribable hell of aerial bombardment."

"In spite of these hardships," he said, "we must continue to answer the call to go down to the sea in ships. He paid tribute, on behalf of the merchant marine, to the work of the Royal Canadian Navy in clearing the seas of enemy raiders.

In closing, Mr. Drummond stated that the letters on the mariner's badge "M.N." while standing for "Merchant Marine" could well stand for "Maintenance of Nation," and in this feeling he was heartily applauded.

OPENING CEREMONY

In attendance at the meeting was the Corps band, and the Corps boys' drum and bugle band. A nominating committee was elected to draw up nominees for the annual election to be held in February. One member of the committee was chosen from each division represented in Corps membership.

The familiar Corps opening ceremony was conducted by the padre, Rt. Rev. W. F. Barfoot, Anglican bishop of Edmonton, who read the names of those members who had answered the last call since the previous meeting. These included the name of Rev. Canon G. G. Reynolds. The ceremony was concluded by the sounding of the Last Post.

Auto Licenses Ready March 1

Motor license plates for 1942-43 will be available March 1, a month earlier than usual, it was announced Tuesday by E. Trowbridge, deputy provincial secretary.

The change is in conjunction with the federal gas rationing order, which becomes effective April 1, and which requires a motorist to possess a provincial car license in order to obtain gasoline coupons.

District offices in Calgary, Lethbridge and Medicine Hat have already received supplies of new plates in preparation for sales after March 1.

The suggestion recently made that only one plate be issued for each car, to conserve steel and iron supplies, has not been confirmed or commented on from Ottawa, provincial officials said.

Officials here stated they had discarded a suggestion that the old plates be retained with a small plate attached to change the year. Other provinces had tried this and found it unsatisfactory, it was stated.

There were few applications for refunds on Tuesday on the 1941-42 licenses, as the January 10 deadline neared. A refund of 20 per cent is allowed on plates returned before that date.

Two Automobiles Wrecked In Crash

Drivers escaped unharmed but two motor vehicles were badly wrecked in a collision at the intersection of 103 avenue and 122 street at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday. Damage was estimated at $285.

Mike Chesak of 108 Hart block, told police that he was proceeding west on 103 avenue and that his car hit another car, driven by Bert M. Hall, of 10126 122 street, as he was about to cross the intersection at 122 street. Hall's car was spun completely around from the force of the impact, banged up against a post on the corner and finally came to a stop against a tree.

Police stated that the left rear wheel of Onesko's car locked and the machine skidded for 150 feet before the crash.

Ukrainians At Celebration Of Yuletide Here

fields of many young men and women of Ukrainian stock.

"The price of liberty is eternal vigilance," he said, "and that is why we are proud of the large number of voluntary enlistments of Ukrainian lads in the Canadian forces. They are in there to protect the liberty that Canada has so generously offered them."

Anthony Hlynka, M.P. for Vegreville, stated that never before in history have the Ukrainians and the British been in as close a relationship as they are today. He stated that the Ukrainians are placing all their faith and confidence in Britain to fulfil points 2 and 3 of the Atlantic Charter, which will give the Ukrainians a nation of complete autonomy.

General Zuklevich, who is 72, spoke words of encouragement to the boys in the armed forces. He stated that first and foremost is their duty to defend democratic institutions.

He expressed thankfulness to Canada for giving the Ukrainians an opportunity to enjoy their many customs and cultures. "We are thankful to Canada for being able to celebrate a peaceful Christmas Eve," he added.

At the conclusion of his address General Zukievich offered a toast to the soldier guests of honor and to the 35,000 Ukrainian soldiers in the different armed forces across Canada.

A tribute was paid to the many Ukrainian boys listed in the honor roll of the defence of Hong Kong. Other speakers were Andrew Zmurko, himself a war veteran and at present a member of the reserve unit; W. H. Kordoski; Peter Kasian and Cpl. L. Golds, R.C.A.F., Calgary.

O. Cukornyk was chairman of the meeting and master of ceremonies.

Stores Revert To Early Closing Law

If you contemplate a shopping tour on Wednesday do it early.

Wednesday afternoon Edmonton's stores will revert to the usual early closing hour of 1 p.m. after being permitted to remain open until 6 p.m. on Wednesday throughout December.

Under the city's early closing by-law stores must close at 1 p.m. throughout the year except in December. During that month the early closing on Wednesday is suspended.

interest in the exercise of either of the alternate."

The secretary-treasurer of the board was instructed, at the meeting, to demand payment in advance from all political organizations requesting use of school premises for meeting purposes.

FOR ARMY LECTURES

Request of an educational committee representing a large group of Ukrainian citizens of Edmonton, for use of one classroom in either Queen's avenue or McCauley school, for use of classes to teach the Ukrainian language and literature to Ukrainian children resident in Edmonton, after normal school hours, was referred by the board to the property committee for a report.

At a meeting of the property committee, following the board meeting, approval was given a request of the Edmonton Fusiliers, 2nd Batt., for use of McKay avenue school for lectures. Use of the boys' playroom on the ground floor, four evenings a week, commencing Monday, Jan. 12, until March 31 was asked by the battalion, as well as periodical use of the girls' playroom on the ground floor.

SURPLUS STOCKS

Disposal of surplus stocks in city schools, to the approximate value of $61 was approved by the property committee. Secretary H. G. Turner reported that a large number of ink bottles, decorations, and one stove, as well as a number of confederation medals, containing a large percentage of copper, were among the surplus items to be disposed of.

Report of the superintendent of the plant, W. McAfee, as to the condition of school buildings, grounds and equipment, together with an estimate of the approximate cost of maintenance and improvements recommended for 1942, was approved by the property committee for submission to the board.

MAINTENANCE ESTIMATES

Estimates submitted for general maintenance amounted to $41,586, but it was felt that due to war circumstances, the estimate should be reduced to the 1941 estimate figure of $33,832.

Supt. McAfee told the committee that the estimates covered only the bare essentials in maintenance. Chairman A. E. Ottewell, and other trustees agreed that the board should protect itself with general reserve funds, to take care of such expenditures as may be required in the near future, but that only essential maintenance work should be done at present.

The general report covered 30 permanent buildings, 12 frame buildings, and five buildings which are vacant or used for other purposes, as well as various property lots.

Chairman A. E. Ottewell presided at both meetings.

Pilot Leaves With Serum For Indians

Page MacPhee, pilot of United Air Services, left Wednesday morning for Fort Chipewyan taking diphtheria anti-toxin to be administered to a band of Indians on Scott Lake, on the northern borders of Saskatchewan, 200 miles east of Chipewyan.

At Fort Chipewyan he will pick up Dr. Jack Melling and fly him to Scott Lake, remaining with him while he treats the Indians. MacPhee departed on Tuesday afternoon was delayed by weather.

Ordered by radio, the pilot has with him 20 syringe packages of 20,000 units of diphtheria anti-toxin, 20 packages of 1,000 units of the anti-toxin and 500 sulphathiazole tablets.

The stricken Indians are a branch of the Chipewyan tribe, known as the Fond du Lacs.
